MIDGETS MATED.

An Interesting Wedding Ceremony Under Curious Circumstances.

Major Littlefinger Takes to Himself a Wife—A Curious Courtship.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—No wedding has excited so much interest among showmen since that of Tom Thumb at Grace Church as the marriage of the two midgets, Miss Ida Hosmer and Mr. Robert Hussa, or, as he has been duly 'christened, Major Littlefinger, at Bunnell's Brooklyn Museum. Ten minutes after the theater was opened every seat in the house was filled, mostly by ladies, and the house presented a very picturesque appearance. A variety performance was first given, at which "the man with the iron jaw," the dancing spider Leongon, the elastic man and Lotta de Alma, "the Queen of Air," appeared. But away below the orchestra seats, down where "the only original acrobat" had disappeared through a trap-door in the stage, a different scene was going on. A little woman only three feet five inches high and dressed in white with a long tulle veil covering masses of brown-hair, wreathed with orange blossoms, sat on a tiny chair with her arms thrown around the neck of a little man, but three feet five inches high.

RESPLENDENT IN A BLACK DRESS SUIT and high white collar and cravat. No one will ever know what the two little people said.

The little man got tired, apparently, of talking sweetly, and very soon got up and paced up and down the floor, toying with his watch-seals and casting approving glances on his reflection from a mirror. The little woman was just going to join him in his walk when Mr. Starr appeared on the stairway and said, "All over for the love act. We will now have the marriage act." Then the little man gave his arm a delicate bend, and the arm of the little woman dropped into the angle and the white veil, the orange blossoms, the black suit and the watch seals all disappeared through the stairway towards the stage. When they reached the top of the stairway the curtain was drawn and the stage presented a curious scene. Indians with dirty blankets, and women, fat women, and other curiosities were running here and there, and Mr. Starr was superintending the management of a parlor scene for a wedding. The curtain went up and the orchestra played "Marriage Bells." Two minutes after "Bobbie," with Ida leaning on his arm, walked on the stage, followed by Rev. Hugh O. Pentacost, who preaches at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Ida's sister, Mrs. Douce, and her brother followed. The bride was not at all excited, but "Bobbie" was, and the watch-seals went through the most horrible contortions. The two little people just came up to the knee of the Irish giant, who was present. "Robert," said the minister, "will you take Ida for your wife?" "I will," said the little man, and the watch-seals jumped. "And Ida, will you take Robert for your husband?" "I will," said the little woman, and she smiled at "Boobie."

TATTOOED MEN

AT THE MINISTER,

and at each and every pretty woman in the house. When the minister pronounced them man and wife the applause was deafening. Ladies waved their handkerchief as Bobbie kissed his wife. Mr. Bunnell then came forward and congratulated them, and all the curiosities extended congratulations, after which the company went down stairs to the wedding breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Hussa then went to Mr. Bunnell's house. They will remain on exhibition during the week. Mr. Hussa is twenty-five years old, and was born at Hartford. Some six weeks ago Mr. Hussa went to Hartford; there he met Miss Hosmer, and being more practical than sentimental proposed that they should "star together," and for this purpose she should marry him. At first she refused, for Ida is a very sentimental young lady, and, in the language of Miss Myrtle Kingsland, the lecturer at the Museum. "She has a yearning after the ideal, a sweetly romantic poetic, mind," which revolted at the idea

OF MARRYING A STAGE CURIOSITY.

But said the groom yesterday: "If there is one thing that I understand better than another, it is a woman, and, sir"—and here the little man gave his watch-seals an indignant jerk—"in one week the heart of Ida Hosmer was mine." Ida said: "Of course Bobbie is not a poet, but I will give in to Bobbie if Bobbie gives in to me." And the little woman looked as if Bobbie would do that.

CAMERON'S HEALTH.

The Senator in a Dangerous but not Hopeless Condition.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—A Washington dispatch says: "Senator Cameron's health is much more seriously impaired than is generally supposed, and his condition is regarded as really critical but not at all hopeless. He has been very much prostrated most of the winter by the return of a fistula in an aggravated form and the habitual use of opiates necessary to enable him to obtain sleep under the constant and severe pain, has shattered his nervous system and generally prostrated him, mentally and physically. He should have had a surgical operation performed sometime ago, but it would have confined him to his room for weeks, and he was unwilling to be deprived of the power to appear in the Senate when the tariff was to be considered. His delay in submitting to the surgical operation increased the violence of his malady, and he was seldom able to appear in the Senate, and then was not fit for participation in its deliberations.

HIS FREEFUL CONTROVERSY

with Mr. Van Wyck was the result of his extreme nervous irritability, and it is not generally known that he fainted away soon after. Since the adjournment of Congress Senator Cameron has not been well enough to stand the surgical operation, and some apprehensions are felt that he may not become strong enough to submit to the scalpel. The operation will be a very severe and delicate one and must greatly prostrate him, and in his present weakened condition it is feared that he would not survive it. He is in the hands of the most experienced medical experts. It is believed that if he can undergo the operation without fatal shock, he will speedily regain his strength and health. He is not suffering from any organic disease. On the contrary his malady is purely local, greatly aggravated by neglect and the necessary use of opiates, and if he can be made to come safely out of the hands of the surgeon there is no reason why he should not fully regain his usual health and vigor.

UNDERGROUND CONDUIT COMPANY.

Plans of a Chicago Corporation for the Transmission of Telegraphic Messages.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—There was a meeting of stockholders and directors of the Chicago Sectional Underground Conduit Company, and the permanent organization was perfected. Louis Wahl was elected president; Dwight K. Tripp, vice-president; Edward Koch, treasurer, and W. J. McGarigle, secretary. This is the company that is constructing the underground conduit from the city limits south, bringing in the forty wires of the Postal Telegraph Company. Upon the completion of one mile of the conduit work will be discontinued long enough to allow the various telegraph, telephone and electric light companies to give the system a thorough test, when work will be pushed to the center of the city. A new plan for underground wires has been devised. It consists of a tube somewhat cone-shaped, four feet high and three and a half feet wide, which can be cast of stone, cement, or any other cheap material, to the walls of the tube in the interior. Along the whole length, except at the man-holes, are attached shelf troughs of sufficient width and capacity to contains wires needed for the next fifty years, and giving enough room in the centre of the tube for the passage of a man seated in the hand-car which runs on the track. The hand-car has an attachment for the laying automatically of one or a number of wires in different shapes at the same time. At the man-holes there is quite an ingenious arrangement for the distribution of wires as needed. The stone cement will cost $6,000 per mile for a large tube, and in proportion for the small one.

THE IRON HORSE.

Commissioner Midgely's Powers in the Pools to be Enlarged.

Passenger Rates Cut--The Air Line--Carson's Mistake--Railroad News.

The Pool Associations.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—On May 1, the headquarters of the Northwestern and Central Iowa Traffic Associations will be removed to the Lakeside building, on the same floor with those of Commissioner Midgley. It is now stated that this is only the first step in a programme already definitely settled which will result in the jurisdiction of Commissioner Midgley being extended over all the present important pools and traffic associations west of Chicago. It is stated that the railroad systems are becoming so complex and extend into such widely separated areas of territory that the several Western pools must of necessity overlap each other. Moreover, it is not always possible to carry out a particular policy without securing the coöperation of lines which may be within the jurisdiction of another pool. At present all the California business, by whatever route transported, falls under the control of the Iowa Trunk Line Association. Next August the Northern Pacific will have a line to the Pacific, and it will be necessary to bring it into the pool on the Pacific coast business. At present there are two routes for the consignment of Montana business, one via the Iowa trunk lines and the Union Pacific and the other via the Northwestern Traffic Association lines and the Northern Pacific. The general managers of the various roads, it is stated, have considered the disadvantages of having the Northwestern, Western and Southwestern roads put under the control of different commissioners, while nearly the same roads are embraced in each of the pool associations. Mr. Midgely, it is stated, will be placed at the head of the pool system west of Chicago, while Mr. Carman will remain as assistant commissioner of the Central Iowa and Northwestern Traffic Associations. The railroad pools seem to be following the example of the railroads, the policy of which for the last ten years has been one of extension and consolidation. It is stated that three pool commissioners will soon control all the important pools in the country. Mr. Powers, at Atlanta, has charge of the Southern roads; Mr. Fink, of New York, has charge of the roads east of Chicago, and Mr. Midgely will, it is stated, in a short time manage the pool business of the West. Even the Colorado Pool Association, it is held, will eventually become subordinated to the stronger association at Chicago.

Chicago Air Line.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 8.—Superintendent J. A. McLeod, of the Chicago Air Line, was in the city to-day. He perfected arrangements for the accommodations of the Union Depot, and concluded an arrangement with General Manager Thomas, of the Bee Line, for terminal facilities. The Air Line will use the Bee Line tracks from Massachusetts avenue and their freight depot, the Wabash being unable to accommodate them. This will give them access to all the Union Companys facilities. The line will be opened about April 1st.

A NEW ROAD.

It is understood that W. R. McKeen, President of the Vandalia Line, is the chief mover in the construction of a new road from Brazil down through Washington county to the Ohio and Mississippi road, thus tapping the richest coal field in the State. A party is now engaged in surveying the line.

RATE WAR.

Another passenger rate war is threatened here by the well-founded rumor that the Vandalia and Chicago and Alton roads are selling tickets by scalpers, and the Missouri Pacific has instructed its agents to pay commissions to scalpers. In view of this fact the Indiana, Blooomington and Western and Wabash people are threatening not only to pay commissions but also to open their outside ticket offices. This is a lateral development of the rate war which began at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday, between the Pan-Handle people on one side and the Indiana, Bloomington and Western and Baltimore and Ohio on the other.

How It Originated.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—It is now stated that the story that John B. Carson, of the Hannibal and St. Joseph, had been appointed general manager of the Wabash system, originated in a telegram which Mr. Carson sent home from New York upon hearing of his reëlection to the service of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Road, which, when received, read "Wabash," instead of "Hannibal and St. Joseph." Mr. Carson was not sure of reëlection, and in his haste to inform his friends of his good fortune inadvertently, it is alleged, got mixed up regarding the name of the road.

Illinois Rate Association.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Illinois Rate Association (railways) is meeting to-day at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

CIPHER PRESCRIPTIONS.

How Chicago Doctors and Druggists Rob Sick People.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The exposure made of the practices of a number of physicians who are otherwise reputable, of entering into collusion with favored druggists to rob patients who apply to them, induced several druggists and others to write congratulatory notes to the papers. One of these druggists calls attention to two prominent physicians who have entered the fraudulent league; the first with an office not far removed from the corner of State and Randolph and another in the vicinity of the Leland Hotel. A prescription written out by the latter which would cost, it is said, 50 cents, ordinarily costs $2 50 at the drug-store where the patient has to take it, as other druggists can't understand the cipher formula. This glaring system of robbery is much more extensive than was at first supposed, and demands immediate investigation. Because a person unfortunately gets sick, and has to patronize a physician or druggist, he is remorselessly robbed. He may not have much money at the time, and may know some druggist who is willing to trust him, but because that druggist is not in league with the physician the helpless sufferer has to borrow to buy his medicine and pay an extra commission to two thieves. It is not asserting an untruth when it is affirmed that the physicians who thus plunder their patrons are among the best and most prominent in the city.

A. D. STUBBS, Bethany, Mo., says: "I have found Brown's Iron Bitters superior to anything I have ever used for weakness and loss of appetite."

A RESORT FOR SPORTS.

How a Pretty Widow Kept a Country Seat Near New York.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Henrietta Wiley, a daughter of the late Henry Harbuck, once a prominent citizen of New York, lived in the country seat of Jas. Connor, a type founder at Westchester. For some time damaging reports have been in circulation in regard to Mrs. Wiley and her numerous visitors, her house, it was said, having been kept in a state of constant confusion by carousing parties of both men and women from New York. A short time since her friends made application to the court to have her case investigated, and if necessary have a commission take charge of Mrs Wiley and her estate valued at $150,000. The case came up before Judge Dyman. The testimony was interesting as it implicates many prominent families of this city. Mrs. Wiley employed some fifteen servants, all of which were sworn. The quantity of wines, liquors, cigars, etc., which came into the house weekly was astonishing. The testimony showed that Mrs. Wiley had been a habitual drunkard for years. Her appearance was prepossessing which seems to have attracted the wealthy sports of New York.

The Star Route Trial--Talk With Congressman Belford.

The Malagassy Envoys--Appointments--News From the Seat of Government--Political.

Star-Route Trial.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Gen. Nelson A. Miles was called to the witness stand this morning by the defense in the Star-Route trial. He testified that in the summer of 1876 he went into the tongue River country. It was just after the Custer massacre and there were few white settlers there except army attaches, who established a mail service. From twenty to sixty days were consumed in communicating with Washington. He remembered that John Dorsey came to Ft. Keogh before the Tougue River route was opened, thinking that a route might be established more direct than that proposed. Witness sent out an armed escort in the attempt to discover such a route. The attempt failed, however, and Dorsey returned to Bismarck. Witness described the obstacles to the establishment of a mail route arising from the hostility of Indians. Sometimes, he said, white men could pass safely over the road, and again they were liable to be molested. He remembered one occasion when the mail had been captured. Witness had called upon the Postmaster-General and one of his assistants, and had written letters through official channels recommending the establishment and increase for the Tongue River route. Gen. Miles produced a copy of the first letter he had written in that connection, but it was excluded on account of its date. He said he recommended the increased service because they only got mail once a week, and were lucky to get that. He believed he recommended a tri-weekly or daily mail, so as to bring his command in closer communication with the War Department and for the benefit of the settlers. At times the route had been of the greatest service often advising him of the movement of Indians and enabling him to anticipate them.

Nothing of importance was developed in the cross examination, and after its conclusion, counsel spent some time on the customary wrangle over official papers. Hannibal D. Norton was then called. He had been for six years Chief of Finance division in the third assistant Postmaster General's office. He detailed the methods pursued in that office in paying remitted fines. George M. Sweeney, of the Contract Office, next appeared with a huge pile of papers, being accounts of the deductions, fines and remissions made upon nineteen routes set out in the indictment. Mr. Wilson began to examine the witness in connection with them. A recess was taken.

Malagassy.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—The arrival of the Envoys from the Island of Madagascar, whose coming was foretold in this correspondence some months ago, brings to the surface some interesting facts about that Government and people and their island. Some statements have been published regarding the ostensible object of their visit, but the real fact seems to be that they are seeking to escape from threatened absorption by the French Government. France, it seems, has for a long time looked with longing eyes upon the fertile island, a very garden spot, where she already has a foothold, and the officials of the Government there seeing that their only safety was in making friends with other nations, have sent out these envoys to make commercial treaties with Germany, England and the United States, and with France, too, at the same time. Information received by the State Department, some time since, shows that the French journals published in the island of Madagascar have been not only very abusive but threatening as well. Consul Robinson in writing to the State Department from Tamatave, Madagascar, says that a French paper published at that place in the interests of European trade in that Island, recently published what purported to be a statement by a commandant of a French war steamer, made to the Governor of Tamatave as the representative of the Madagascar Government. The statement was in effect that the French Government had a suspicion that the Government of Madagascar had been intriguing to get the inhabitants of some French settlements on or adjoining the island to renounce allegance to France and raise the Madagascar flag, and that unless a promise was given that it would be discontinued at once and forever, the French Government would stop it by force of arms. The Consul says "the French island of 'Rennion' (formerly called Bourbon,) is over populated with an impoverished people who are constantly casting a covetous eye upon Madagascar, and that people with its local officers and the ambitious local officers of the French islands of St. Marie, Nosibe and Mayote, together with the French creole residents in Madagascar, are, and have been during the last three years playing all their cards in an effort to draw the French Government into a quarrel with the government of Madagascar, hoping, as they have nothing to loose themselves, to gain as a result of such quarrel a slice, if not the whole of this island to the possession of France for them (these creoles) to colonize."

This same consul, in another report, says that Madagascar is a wonderful coffee-grower, and is destined to be the chief producer of that article in that portion of the world.

Congressman Belford Talks.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A Star reporter called on Representative Belford, of Colorado, to-day, touching the appearance in the Star of yesterday of an article from the Denver Republican, alleging that Belford had arranged the bail bond of one Hoyt, a Star Route man, who had made a false affidavit as to the value of property owned by him in Colorado, and had been arrested and held to answer in bail by Judge Snell for false swearing. Belford said: "My connection with Mather was just this: oyt was held to bail and wanted a bondsman. Being a member of Congress I could not go the bond of anybody. I knew that Hoyt owned valuable mineral lands in the southern portion of my State. Had I not been a member of Congress I would have gone upon his bond. Instead I wrote a note in which I said I knew Hoyt and knew him to be responsible and that, while I could not myself go on his bond, I would have no hesitation in indemnifying any one who would become his surety. I did for Hoyt that which I would do for any friend. I did it as an act of friendship for a friend whom I knew to be responsible.

"So far as the $2,000 check story is concerned," continued Mr. Belford, "it is the foulest fabrication ever concocted by a confessed liar. I think the court treated me unfairly yesterday in not letting me disclaim the lie in the place where it was uttered."

His Salary.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The first controller of the Treasury advises the Treasurer to make no payments on account of the salary of Theodore F. Singizer, the newly elected delegate to the House of Representatives from Idaho, until his accounts as secretary of that territory, which office he has just vacated, have been adjusted. There is nothing wrong in the accounts, which are now in process of settlement. Treasurer Gilfillan says he cannot refuse to advance Singizer his salary when it becomes due, as he does not believe he has anthority to withhold the salary of any public officer, unless it can be shown that he is indebted to the Government.

THE SOUTHERN FLOODS.

Latest Reports of High Water from Memphis and Below.

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 8.—The outlook on the low lands below Memphis is exceedingly gloomy. The river at all points south of here is rising at an average rate of seven inches a day. The colored people of the plantations are packing up their belongings and flocking to Memphis by steamboat-loads. There are already over 3,000 of them here who are supporting themselves by doing odd jobs. So far none of them have appealed for help. They are able to pay their passage on the boats and as soon as the water leaves their cabins high and dry again they will return to their homes. Capt. Whitlow, of the James Lee, says that while the most of the people have thus far managed to protect their property, the situation is extremely precarious, and that a much larger volume of water than appeared below Helena last year seems inevitable, according to careful observations made by him. Capt. Whitlow received a dispatch yesterday evening from Delta, Miss., informing him that the water had already done much damage, and that a rise of two or three inches more will send it over the levee in many places. At Austin, sixty miles below Memphis, the levee is broken and the water is running over into the town. The levees gave way at the Dr. Peters' plantation, a large and noted place just below Council Bend, and every acre is in deep water and the occupants fled. Rivermen believe that the lower river will pass the highest water on record. The people, however, are better prepared for it than ever before, as they are expecting it. Capt. Thorwegan declares the outlook is as bad as he ever saw. News from all points on the St. Francis River shows that the water pouring down from the sunken lands is undiminished and the river is still rising at every point. The suffering among the inhabitants in the sunk lands must be extreme. They are beyond the help of the outer world and it will be weeks before all their misery can be learned. The destruction in the bottoms between Madison and Hopefield continues to be very great. In some places the overflow is fifteen feet. Miles of telegraph poles have been washed away and business is transacted entirely by the way of Little Rock. Advices received from Vicksburg state that the people living about there are feeling very despondent. Levee contractors expressed themselves as very much discouraged with the outlook. They begin to think that, notwithstanding their vigorous efforts, the elements will defeat all their purposes and destroy all their levee work above and below the city. News comes from Arkansas City that the water there is now within fourteen inches of the highest known. Parties from across the river say that the people over there are still confident of the levees in front of them, though a little nervous from the reported heavy strain on the work at Lake Bolivar. Some of the people in Arkansas City are beginning to make inquiries as to the probabilities of aid from the National Government in case the worst comes. There is no suffering yet, but there is bound to be if the rise continues. All leading dealers in the town are still doing business, though all are invaded by water from six to eighteen inches.

At Helena.

HELENA, ARK., March 8.—The river rose a scant half inch during the past twelve hours. It is thought the levees can be held here now against probable emergencies, as they were maintained last night against a terrific east gale that sent the water dashing over in many places. The situation is still critical, however, and there will be no relaxing vigilance and labor to make everything compact and thoroughly secure. Below Helena the country is all under water, from five to fifteen feet backwater from the Hubbard break appearing in the lower end of the city, but it will do no damage. Unless other breaks occur there will be no overflow in Helena. The Langville River rose two inches last night. This indicates that the rise here will continue some days.

Breaks in the Levee.

MEMPHIS, March 8.—Two breaks in the levee on the east bank of the river occurred Monday night. One at McCloud's, fifteen miles below Friar's Point, Miss., and one at Robard's thirty-five miles below Friar's Point. The Saturday break is the most serious. There is a crevasse about 200 yards wide and the water is rushing through with great velocity. These are the first breaks reported from the second Mississippi levee district. The farms of Col. Ed. Richardson near Robard's will be be overflowed and the water will find its way through the break into the Yazoo River.

Miller, a boiler-maker, and John Frith, a former policeman, were taken from the ruins. The three men were crushed to death by the falling wall of Litterer's drug-store while in the act of rescuing property from the adjoining building during the fire about 10 o'clock last night.

MIDNIGHT MOANS.

The Strange Noises That Wake South St. Louisans From Their Slumbers.

A Monster Banshee Riding Down the Winds --The Dumb Bull Theory--Other Explanations of the Mystery.

For the past week or longer people in the southern part of the city have been troubled with nightly visitations of a mournful, mysterious noise that threatens to blow one end out of the welkin, while at the same time it has a touch of sadness in it tenderer than the chorus of nineteen yaller dogs singing their death song in the cruel depths of a sausage machine. The noise makes itself known about 11 o'clock, and those who have heard it say it continues for at least five minutes. Various are the explanations that have been offered as solutions of the mystery. North St. Louisans, who have not had their slumbers disturbed in this way, have, however, had their interest awakened, and they are just as vigorously and earnestly discussing the subject as are their southern neighbors. The explanations that come from every quarter range in intensity and character from the humorous idea of a solo on a bass fiddle or a fantasie in X on a "dumb bull" to the appalling suggestion that a monster Banshee is riding the winds, crooning a doleful dirge premonitory of the general destruction by air, fire and water of everything in and around this section of country. This distressful view of the affair is taken by and fluttering hearts, who were nearly frightened to death a few years ago when somebody interested in the candle business predicted that there were to be three terribly dark days, which would be followed by other equally dismal signs indicative of the approach of the final judgment. That gloomy prediction became an article of faith with nine-tenths of the women and children of this country, and a large portion of the male population took stock in the threatened darkness and destruction. The date for the first black day came, and the sky was as clear, the sun as bright and the temperature as cheerful as any one could desire; the second and third day followed and the atmospheric and firmamental conditions remained the same. Still there was quivering of nerves and a slight tremor left in the hearts of the anxious that it took several months to banish. A great many people now have as much faith in Wiggins' promised storm as was had in the "dark days," and the prophecy has been strongly reinforced by the mysterious noises that have been heard. The noise created its latest spasm of excitement last night when a physician living south of Chouteau avenue was frightened out of bed and began pointing a repeating rifle out of an upper story window into his back yard, where he supposed a mass meeting of Numidian lions was in progress.

THE DISTURBANCE

began at about 11:15 and was over at 11:20, when it gave way to the jingle of street-car bells and the gentle snore of the policeman under the awning on the corner. The sound came from the direction of the Union Depot. Another citizen heard the same thing, but his impression was that it came from East St. Louis and he retired to bed satisfied that it was a mass-meeting of some kind going on in the island. There were other hearers of the same noise who had their own theories, and as the solutions of the mystery have been manifold the POST-DISPATCH sent out a reporter to canvass the city for the explanations, and the result of his work is here presented. The reader, while perusing this column, will please bear in mind the fact that the first installment of the great Wiggins storm is due to-morrow along the Atlantic coast, and having this idea properly fixed in his mind's eye he can weigh the various theories here advanced and take his choice.

OFFICER DONAHUE,

who guards the peace and property in the district bounded by St. Ange and Second Carondelet, Park and Chouteau avenues, was asked if he had heard the mysterious noises, and said: "It was about 12 o'clock when I was standing at the corner of St. Ange and Park avenues, I heard the noise, and it sounded to me like the roaring of a lion on the opposite side of the street, only it was so loud that I knew a lion couldn't roar that way if he was at my back. A great many people on my beat spoke to me about the strange roaring. It woke a great many of them out of sound sleep."

MR. D. H. BARTLETT,

who lives in the vicinity of Lafayette Park, speaking of his experience of the mystery, said: "My wife woke me up last night, with the alarming intelligence that some kind of a wild beast was in the house. She said she had heard the most horrible moaning and howling, that seemed to proceed from down stairs, and, woman-like, she wanted me to get up and go prowling around the house looking for wild beasts. I did get up and looked out of the window, but beyond the dogs in the neighborhood barking in a more than usually excited way, I could hear nothing, nor could I see anything, though it was a fine, clear night. I went back to bed and asleep, but my wife woke me up again, and said she had heard the same alarming noise. Well, I didn't hear it, and went to sleep again. My servant girl was out pretty late that night and the next day told my wife a curious story. She said she had just passed through the park when some creature, fully as large as a calf, rushed by her and then she heard the strange moaning. My wife hadn't said anything to her about this noise, the girl telling of her adventure of her own will. Curious, was'nt it? It may have been a big dog the servant saw, but that noise is a mystery and our neighborhood is getting excited over it."

ANIMAL NOISES.

Capt. Tom Martin, who is in charge of the dog pound, said:

"I have heard a dozen persons living in the vicinity of the pound talk about the noise though I have not heard it myself. They describe it as the roaring of a lion."

Deputy Marshal John R. Slevin said: "I didn't hear the noise myself, but the girl employed in our family heard it and said it was an earthquake. She got up when she heard the noise and described it next morning."

Clemens Arendes, the Four Courts janitor, said: "My wife called me up during that rumbling and I was just waking as it ceased. It lasted a long time, though. I don't know what it was. Several of my neighbors spoke of it on Geyer avenue."

A gentleman who heard the strange noises advances in explanation. "It was an old trick with us when I was a boy," said he, "A dumb bull is made as follows: A stout keg is secured and both heads are knocked out. A strong rawhide thoroughly soaked in water is stretched over one of the openings and fastened on with a hoop. It is then put away and dried. When perfectly dry a small hole is bored through the center of the hide and a huge cat-gut, knotted on the outside, is run through the keg. Then we would get a buckskin glove and cover the palm well with rosin. While two boys held the keg, the third would take a stout hold of the catgut in the keg and draw it through his hand. The noise of that thing was like the creaking of a barn-door 1,000 feet high, weighing 100 tons and swinging on an old wooden hinge. It could be heard a and would set every cow in the county belowing and every dog barking. While indulging in this youthful pastime I was arrested once, and on trial farmers living nine miles from where the boys operated our monster bass fiddle swore that it drove their cattle wild, and we were fined for our fun. It was a favorite instrument with the boys in Kentucky, where, when a man beat his wife, he was marched out of town, while we played a wild and weird refrain on tin pans and the 'dumb bull.' Some lads in St. Louis county could probably explain away these mysterious noises in this way."

THE "DUMB BULL" THEORY

DISTANCE OF FIFTEEN MILES

SERGEANT WEBER,

of the U. S. Signal Service, heard the noise about 11:30 o'clock last night, and said: "I was in a car on Park avenue at the time. At first I thought it was the rumbling of the car, but the conductor said no. I listened and soon could distinguish between the two. When the noise ceased I heard an engine whistle and then the beating of a train of cars across the river. The wind was in the northwest, and I guess the noise was occasioned by the cars either rounding a curve or going over a wooden bridge. You will find that is the proper explanation of the mystery. There are no atmospheric disturbances it can be attributed to."

THE EXPOSITION.

Subscriptions Pouring Into the Treasury—Nearly $100,000 Received.

In response to the circular sent out by Treasurer Cupples to the Exposition subscriptions, the amounts have been pouring in at a surprising rate, so much so that two men have been kept busy posting them on the books and yet are far behind the amounts received. Mr. Cupples says he has done nothing except sign receipts since, but he is also behind. He says the promptness of the answers is very encouraging, especially when so many are the small subscribers, and many are sending the full amounts instead of the fifty per cent called for. He says he desires all subscribers to send by check payable to his order as treasurer, so there can be no mistake, and also to send promptly. Such Secrecy!

The testimony of Oby E. Owen was resumed today in the presence of his bondsmen. The members of the press were rigidly excluded, as before, and every effort was made on all sides to respect the prisoner's wish and suppress the evidence. The bondsmen are at a loss to know where more than three-fourths of the stolen money drifted, and Owen's actions betray an anxious effort to screen other parties. That others were culpable in the teller's operations and speculations there is now little doubt. The deposition, when complete, will have to be filed, but a lack of confidence is expressed in the light of the evidence of the defaulting teller thus far.

SPRINGFIELD LEGISLATURE.

Warm Debate in the Senate—Full Proceedings of Both Houses.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., March 8.—In the Senate this morning the special order was postponed for the reconsideration of the vote by which the bill for taxing express companies failed to pass. The reopening of the question occasioned another exciting debate which occupied the full limit, thirty minutes, given to each member on any question. The supporters of the bill where Messrs. Whiting, Hamilton and Laning, through the efforts of whom the bill was sent to the Committee on Judiciary. The Senate went into executive session. The nominations of Messrs. Brainard, Lewis and Stratton were confirmed; also that of Rumsey as South Park Commissioner at Chicago, and Williams as Public Administrator of Calhoun county. A bill providing for filling county offices made vacant during the term of office passed the Senate. A large number of bills were read and referred. A motion that when the Senate adjourns to-day it be to meet to-morrow at 9:30 a. m., was carried. The special order was taken up at 12 o'clock, the subject being the contingent expenses of the State. Several Senators were ready with suggestions for retrenchment. The bill was considered by sections and amendments were offered. The bill was still under discussion at 12:40 when the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

After a warm debate in the House the bill making an appropriation of $10,000 for the victims of the Diamond Mine disaster, with $2,000 more for the Coulterville sufferers, was passed, and the Shawneetown and Rose Clare appropriation bills were ordered to third reading. The bill appropriating $8,000 as a reimbursement for the levee at Mound City was sent to a Committee on Municipal Affairs. Reports of committees were received, of which a number were tabled and others were reported favorably. The House adjourned.

Court Notes.

The back-tax docket will be called in Judge Barclay's court, No. 3, on Thursday March 22.

A suit in replevin to recover a wardrobe was filed this morning by Emily S. Park against Henry B. Kerone.

A non-suit was taken by plaintiff in Judge Thayer's court in the case of Elizabeth Ruppert against William Burton.

The case of James McNichol against the U. S. Mercantile Reporting Agency was submitted to Court No. 3 to-day without a jury.

In the United States Court to day, there was an argument in the patent egg-case infringement suit, Coburn against Brainard et al.

The law docket will be called to-morrow in Judge Adams' court, No. 1, but not in Judge Horner's division nor in Judge Thayer's.

In the case of E. H. Warner et al. vs. Frederick Reichmann, tried in Judge Barclay's court, there was judgment to-day for the plaintiffs for possession and one cent damages.

The case of Bernard Falkenhainer, the ex-transfer mail clerk at the Union Depot, accused of robbing the mail, will be called in the United States Court on the 20th inst.

In the case of Marcus Lesinsky against the Great Western Dispatch, tried in Judge Adams' Court, the jury this afternoon returned a verdict, judgment for plaintiff for $570 65.

The following cases were dismissed to-day in the courts: Smith vs. Weber, St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway Company vs. Denny et al., Harpold vs. Howard et al.

In the case of Geo. Breckenridge against Chas. Speck and Barnes and Morrison et al. there was judgment to-day on mechanic's lien against the defendants for $735 60, relative to the new Armory building.

The will of Christian Grundrich, Sen., bearing date November 1, 1881, was admitted to probate to-day. The son Joseph receives the bulk of the estate. He is appointed executor. The son Anton receives a legacy of $150; the son Christian $1.

The wages suit of Stephenson against Gerardi resulted in a judgment for plaintiff for $259 55, with costs against plaintiff. This was the case in which the superintendent of the Planters' House restaurant claimed for balance due for services. The contract, however, was misconstrued by the plaintiff.

Letters of administration were granted to-day to A. Edward Summers, executor of John C. Summers' estate, valued at $30,000. The will, bearing date February 23, 1883, provides for the mother of testator several lots in Oliver Garrison's addition. The sisters receive $1,000 each, and the residue of the estate passes to the brother, A. E. Summers.

The Union Market.

An ordinance authorizing the City Comptroller to ascertain the cost of lighting the Union Market by electricity is in the Mayor's hands awaiting approval. Comptroller Adreon stated this morning that the ordinance does not mean that the city will light the market in the manner proposed, but if the cost is found to be moderate, an appropriation for the purpose will follow. The Comptroller also stated that if the electric light is introduced in the market the next step will be to discover if the market cannot be heated by the same power which generates the electricity. This is an improvement which has long been needed at the market.

Mysteriously Missing.

This morning the mysterious disappearance of Peter Ehret was reported to the police. He came to this city several days ago from Chamois, Mo., and was stopping at No. 1722 Morgan street. An alarm was turned on from box 167 and the flames were extinguished with a slight loss. The fire was started by sparks from the smoke-stack of the boiler-house alighting on the cotton.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

There was an undercurrent of strength running through the grain markets of this country, and a more confident tone was expressed in telegrams from other points. The opening was lower in Chicago on continued unfavorable cables and fine weather, but while these were in favor of the bears they could not hold their advantage, and ran very easily from an advance. The whole bear element appear just now to lack the confidence necessary to carry their side to victory. New York was said to be selling for a "scalp" in Chicago during the early hours, but Wall street is reported as heavily long both wheat and corn, and later in the day was again buying. J. B. Hobbs, who very bearish, and others were selling freely of corn, but none of the large lines of grain in Chicago are being offered. Most of the New York exporters are on the bear side, but some of them seem to believe that the bottom is near, as shown by a telegram from Wm. Bingham to R. S. McCormick & Co.: "Liverpool wheat dull and lower to sell. Here unsettled. Think is not far from bottom, but will take time to regain confidence prices. Corn is getting near safe point again." There was some talk in New York to-day of damage to the crop. Some uneasiness was also felt there over the fact that one of their largest houses had bought the market dry of March and April wheat and corn, and a deal in April is apprehended. The leading markets of this country, while weak and lower at first, gradually recovered and moved upward, Chicago leading in the advance and showing most strength. The Liverpool cable reported a heavy snow storm in England and a late circular of Anton Kufeke, Liverpool, says: "During the past sennight the weather has unfortunately continued wet and stormy and the flooded and damp condition of the soil is still preventing farmers from making any progress whatever with field-work. It is now confirmed that only two-thirds of the usual wheat acreage in this country has been sown so far, and it is highly improbable that more than a tithe of the remaining third can yet be sown with spring wheat. The appearance of the growing wheat is not improving, and on the whole the outlook is gloomy."

Locally the grain speculative markets were very quiet, the advance in price seeming to check trading. The spots would not sell freely and the bulls were rather timid, although the market was going their way. After the noon call the strength that had prevailed entirely disappeared and prices went off, a change to weakness in other markets causing this. At the close April wheat had sellers at ⅝c higher and May was offered only ⅛c above yesterday's close, while May corn was ⅛c better than, but other options nominally unchanged. Oats showed the most strength, though it too eased off from the top, the last sales for May showing only ⅛c advance. The cash market was higher, but quiet, the demand slackening considerably, and at the close the earlier rates were not obtainable.

Barley—Receipts 43 sks, 10,800 bu. Only a small business transacted, but as offerings were small receivers held steadily. We quote: Rejected at 45@50; No. 3 55@60; prime to strictly prime 62½@67½; choice 70@72½; fancy 75@80.

Provisions—Receipts 50 brls pork, 300,000 lbs hams, 566,200 lbs meats, 900 lbs lard. A firmer tone was shown by this market, an advance in Chicago, with a more confident feeling reputed there and more freedom in the demand exciting a beneficial effect here. But the local market was quiet, and outside of a larger movement to dry salt meats at up country points little was done. Standard mess was held higher at $18 37½ in old pgks; on call $18 50 asked for cash and March, no bids; $18 10 bid for April; $18 45 for May, $18 55 asked; $18 50 for June, $18 80 asked. Cotton.

There is very little if any change to report in connection with the market for spot cotton. Steadiness and quietude are the characteristics at all points. Trading continues light, New York reporting 1,700 bales at 10 3-16 for middling. New Orleans middlings unchanged at 9⅝, with sale of — bales. Liverpool showed some improvement, there being a moderate demand, which was freely met, and, as a result, 10,000 bales changed hands. Local sales not worth reporting. At New York futures opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points, working up gradually until the 2 p. m. call, when they eased off a little, and showed indications of a decline at the close. Liverpool opened barely steady and higher, closing dull and unchanged. New Orleans also opened steady and 1 to 3 points up, and continued so with an upward tendency to 1:10 p. m., when they were 1 to 2 points partly higher than the opening.

REDUCTION OF CIGAR TAX.

To anticipate in part the reduction of the Revenue tax on Cigars we will after this date sell all our brands of Domestic Cigars at list price AND GIVE A REDUCTION OF $2 00 PER THOUSAND AT foot of bill.

If the dealer sells the Cigars before May 1, he makes his usual profit and $2 per 1000 on them. If he does NOT sell them but has them on hand May 1, he collects from the Government $3 per 1000 on all his stock. He therefore gets $2 per 1000 from us, and $3 per 1000 from the Government, making a total of $5 per 1000 which he makes on the Cigars, more than his usual profit.

CATTLE—Market again active and very strong. As one buyer remarked, "They have got cattle on the top-shelf and we buyers are obliged to stand on tip-toe to reach 'em." The supply was very fair and composed of a good average quality, buyers were out in force, and under on urgent demand prices advanced and were fully 12½c higher on butchers' stuff, as the annexed sales will show. Shipping grades, however, were not advanced, although selling freely and at as strong prices as prevailed yesterday, when late sales were made as high as $6 10@6 75 for steers averaging 1,514 to 1,688 pounds, and this morning trade was confined principally to light steers and mixed lots of cows and heifers, which brought remarkably high figures, the advance reported early being sustained, and the pens almost entirely cleared of this description by 10 a. m. Eastern shippers had orders to fill, and the outlook for a good trade in this line was encouraging, and as high prices are looked for as prevailed yesterday. Quotations were very strong at the following:

HOGS—"She's a booming again. Market 5 to 10c higher all round and very active," was the remark that greeted our reporter upon his arrival at the "Hotel de Hog." This was quickly verified by other dealers and personal observation on the part of our representative. Shippers had liberal orders to fill, and, with the exception of a few loads to butchers and speculators, the bulk of the forty odd loads on sale were made to them at this advance, the extreme range being from $6 90@7 50 for light to heavy. "Nobby Clarke," who is generally on top, had orders from three firms, his purchases being mostly in Buffalos and heavy weights for which he paid $7 20@7 50, while Frank Dean, who required light to choice York hogs, bought freely at a range from $6 90@7 10. Other sales at $6 65@7 30 to butchers, scalpers and speculators. By 10 a. m. the arrivals which, by the way, were nothing extra in point of quality, were all sold. Values were very stiff and bullish at the following: Light to good Yorkers $6 90@7 10; heavy shippers $7 20@7 35; butchers to extra $7 20@7 70; skips and culls $5 85@6 50.

THURSDAY, MARCH 8, 1883.

GENERAL HAZEN is not anxious to have a court of inquiry. He does not court that kind of a court.

THE train robbers have transferred their operations to Arkansas, and now we presume it is in order to set up a cry of "Poor old Arkansas."

FIFTY-SIX thousand dollars paid in in one day on calls on the Exposition subscriptions make it look like business. The Exposition is a big thing, and don't you forget it.

YESTERDAY the Treasurer of the Exposition fund gathered in $56,000 in cash. Send in the amount of your subscription at once, so that the work of organization can proceed.

OUR economical Legislature has cut down the appropriation asked for the militia from $50,000 to $20,000 for two years. It is evident that the militia is not looked upon as a part of the system by which Democrats are elected and maintained in office in Missouri.

THEY have started a "Municipal Reform Association" over in Cincinnati, the object of which is to prevent the politicians from stealing the running-gears of the city. We have hardly reached that stage here, but a Vigilance Committee wouldn't be out of place.

OF course the Exposition Building and Art Hall is to be a thing of beauty and a joy for several years. It should be located where people can obtain a good view of it and where there will be room for the multitudes to stand while purchasing tickets. A little lee-way is indispensable.

THE bills with big jobs in them are materializing at Jefferson City now, and the unsophisticated rural member is in great danger. A bill that brings lobbyists to the front is nearly always open to suspicion. Measures for the general good never cause the lobbyists to swarm.

EX-GOV. TOM FLETCHER has arranged a date with President ARTHUR. He will call at the White House on Friday and enlighten his Serene Highness on Missouri affairs. If Mr. ARTHUR really takes an interest in Missouri matters it would pay him to come out and stay a couple of weeks with us.

THE HON. SETH CREWS, member of the Illinois Legislature from Jefferson county, has just been indicted by a Grand Jury for skinning a Belleville banker to the extent of $3,000 by means of a confidence game. The people who elected Mr. CREWS to the Legislature must have been badly "confidenced" themselves.

BEN BUTLER cannot derive any consolation from the predicament in which CLEVELAND finds himself. BEN tried to veto a bill himself the other day, but as the veto message was sent in on a day when he was outside of the State attending to law business, the Legislature took the ground that it was not a genuine veto.

NEXT to SESSINGHAUS, who received $15,000 for failing to get into Congress, the most fortunate man in politics is the unknown nephew of KEIFER who is now drawing a Congressman's pay as stenographer for the Congress which adjourned on the day he was appointed. Mr. KEIFER'S lessons in statesmanship were learned at the feet of ROBESON.

THE ex-reverend GEO. C. MILN, of Chicago, now an alleged actor, has been insulted by the New York Tribune, which calls him "an absurd person." MILN responds in a half-column letter, in which he says that all he wants is fair play. Yet that is all that the public want from him, and it is just what he will not give them—at least not when he plays "Hamlet."

OF late the value of the Mercantile Club to the business interests of the city has been thoroughly established. It is precisely what its projectors intended it to be—convenient headquarters for the men who direct St. Louis commercially. The recent meetings and banquets held there have fully demonstrated both the convenience and capacity of the institution. There is no place in the city better arranged for the giving of public banquets and none provided with a better cuisine.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, of Harper's Weekly, is a very particularly nice young man in all matters affecting civil service reform. President ARTHUR has done more for the cause of civil service reform than Mr. CURTIS has ever done, and yet Mr. CURTIS has presented resolutions of censure, which have been adopted by the New York Civil Service Reform Association, reflecting on the President. A great many people would think better of civil service reform if there was not so much Miss Nancy-ism about it.

IF Congress felt any apprehension about the possibility of passing a tariff bill which would please both sides, it need have felt no doubt of the ability to pass a bill that would please neither. This seems to be the general verdict which is gradually coming in from all sides. In the controversy over the tariff the duties on articles that do not enter into American competition are not a direct issue. All the question turns on the reduction of the duties imposed on manufactured articles or raw materials of manufacture. Now in making the tariff reductions apply chiefly to sugar and tobacco the tariff reformers were cheated and insulted, and in rearranging the schedules of manufactures the new law imposes heavier proportionate duties on raw materials than on finished products, and leaves rates in so unsettled a condition that it is almost certain that a new revision will have to be made. This is not satisfactory to the practical industries, and, taken all around, the new tariff is about the only thing that could be worse than the old one.

THE RUSSELL INSTITUTE.

Some years prior to his death Mr. WM. RUSSELL, father-in-law of the late THOMAS ALLEN, of this city, laid his plans for the endowment of "The Russell Institute for the Indigent Youth of St. Louis." He authorized the sale of immense tracts of land in Arkansas, the proceeds of which he directed to be placed in the hands of THOMAS ALLEN as President of the Institute. These lands were sold to the amount of $47,000, and the remainder were deeded to Mr. ALLEN as President of the Russell Institute. The Russell Institute was never established.

A few years ago the general heirs of RUSSELL, claiming that this was a lapsed legacy, went into the United States Circuit Court and demanded a division of the money in the hands of THOMAS ALLEN. The Court decided that they had no right to it—that the legacy was not lapsed. The case was carried up to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that body has just confirmed the decision of the court below.

This fund, now amounting to something like $200,000, is still in the ALLEN estate. It belongs to the "Russell Institute," of St. Louis, and, on behalf of the indigent youth of the city, we suggest that some steps be taken at once to see that the design of the late Mr. RUSSELL is carried out, and that this worthy educational institution is established.

Perhaps some of our citizens know something about this misdirected trust and can give the public some information about it.

CUMULATIVE SENTENCES.

At the November term of court in Scotland county JOSEPH SCHMIDT was convicted on twenty-two counts of an indictment for selling liquor without license and was fined the minimum of $40 in each case, or $880 in all. The prisoner was unable to pay, and the sentence was commuted to twenty days in jail for each count, making an aggregate of 440 days' imprisonment. When he had served out twenty days his counsel asked for his discharge on the ground that the court had no power to inflict punishment for each of the several counts. The court held that it had that power, but compromised the case by letting the prisoner off. Vermont, however, comes to the front with a case that beats this. At Rutland, on the 2d inst., one JOHN O'NEILL, a bad liquor-dealer, was found guilty of 457 offenses against the liquor laws and was sentenced to pay fines amounting to $9,140, together with $500 of costs, or to undergo the alternative punishment of eighty years' confinement in the House of Correction. On taking an appeal from this outrageous decision he was required to give bail in the sum of $100,000. The provision of the United States Constitution against requiring excessive bail seems to be inoperative in Vermont liquor cases, and the judicial luminaries of that State evidently feel competent to overrule the authority of the New York Court of Appeals decision on the subject of the cumulative punishments in the TWEED sentence. By combining in one sentence the several punishments for a great number of minor offenses, the mildest penalties which the law imposes for misdemeanors can be converted into cruel and unusual punishments, far more severe than are provided for crimes of a worse and more shocking type. It is absurd to hold that any Legislature in this age and country ever intended to put a man in prison for eighty years for selling liquor contrary to law.

CLEVELAND'S PLIGHT.

Governor CLEVELAND'S veto of the five-cent fare bill on the Elevated Railroads has been sustained by the Legislature, but nothing can repair the injury done to the prestige of this young and promising "favorite son." No one doubts the honesty of CLEVELAND'S motives in coming to the rescue of the railroads, but on the other hand his best friends cannot ignore the fact that, while his veto message presented a strong argument against a violation of its contract by the State, it was his duty as Governor to protect the State against such frauds in carrying out a contract as amount to a violation of it on the part of the railroad companies.

Popular opinion will forgive many errors in the conduct of public men, but it never forgives the mistakes that arise from over-scrupulousness and weighing of grains of dust and arguing of technicalities in controversies in which the rights of the people are antagonized by corporations that are notoriously fraudulent. According to the contract of the State of New York, it may not interfere with railroad fares until the company's net earnings are ten per cent of its cost, and technically no proof has been given that this limit has been reached in the case of the elevated roads. But the issues of stock and bonds in these roads are "confirmation strong as proof of Holy Writ" that the real cost of the roads was not more than one-third of the amount on which the people are called upon to pay interest by high fares. Governor CLEVELAND has been caught on the wrong side of this controversy, and, though his reputation for honesty does not suffer, his political availability is greatly impaired.

AMATEUR STATESMEN.

The announcement that some thirty of the prominent citizens of Cincinnati have started out to form a new party devoted to the purpose of reforming municipal politics will not startle a world which is accustomed to hear of many such attempts. That is to say, we hear of the bright beginnings of these attempts at reform, although their blight and untimely demise are seldom chronicled.

We have heard of them so often that we have ceased to sympathize even with the motives of amateur statesmanship. This is not a country in which any thirty men are the political superiors of three hundred thousand of their fellow citizens, and if they really wish to keep and hold any political leadership there is only one way for them to do it: to go into politics and to obtain the voluntary support of their fellow citizens in their aspirations.

The amateur statesman who attempts to purify the politics of a city or a nation is almost invariably a personage who would recoil in horror if he were told that his first business was to carry his own ward or, at least his own beloved precinct. This is just what the greater number of them cannot do. Their inability to control their own ward does not present itself to them as an evidence of their inability to control a national party.

Ours is a Government of the people and by the people, and it must represent the faults as well as the virtues of the people. It has its evils, its failures, its corruptions, but the worst thing that could happen to it would be to have the control of public affairs transferred from the hands of the people to those of the amateur statesmen who periodically pose as reformers and announce their intention of kindly taking charge of things in general.

CLARENCE HITE, dying of consumption in the Missouri Penitentiary, has been pardoned and sent to his old Kentucky home to die. He says that he participated in the Winston robbery and that he saw FRANK JAMES kill one of the victims of that affair, JESSE JAMES killing the other. He says also that both DICK LIDDLE and FRANK JAMES took part in the Blue Cut affair as well as at Winston. However, as CLARENCE will be dead before FRANK JAMES' trial comes off, and as the United States Government refuses to give DICK LIDDLE a chance to testify, the fates as well as the temporal powers seem to be conspiring to treat FRANK'S case as a political one, not to be subjected to the penalties for ordinary murder and robbery.

THE Treasury rat who prints a mangy little newspaper in Jefferson City called the Tribune has been permitted to draw $420 from the State for furnishing his daily edition to the members of the Legislature. The probabilities are that the entire establishment in which the Treasury rat prints his travesty on a daily newspaper could be purchased for $500. As there is no earthly reason why the State should furnish members of the Legislature with an inane and newsless newspaper, we conclude that the $420 paid to Mr. MCHENRY is a plain steal for the benefit of the Great Democratic Party.

THE growing popularity of the numerous clubs in St. Louis will be impaired by the announcement that a St. Louis wife has filed a cross-bill in a divorce suit in which she alleges as a reason for getting a divorce that her husband was in the habit of staying away from home until 1, 2, and even 3 o'clock in the morning. To aggravate his offense he imposed on her credulity by falsely saying that he had been "on jury duty." If the court is a club-man the court will take good care not to grant a divorce for the insufficient allegation of late hours.

THE NEW YORK PRESS.

What the Journals of the Metropolis are Saying Editorially To-Day.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Herald says: "The burning of the Cambridge Flat building will have the effect of turning public attention to an important class of structures which have hitherto escaped the ravages of destroying flames. The large number of apartment houses in the city is already great and fast increasing. The significant reminder of yesterday's fire is that the first conspicuous building of this kind to be attacked by the flames proves to be fire-proof in no sense of the word. Every one of these structures, filled as they are with human beings, ought to be completely fire-proof, but how many of them are built with this protection against the loss of life?"

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "It is doubtful if the scene which occurred yesterday before Judge Wylie in Washington, could have taken place in any other court of like degree in the country. Respect for the bench seemed sadly lacking in the National Capital. Mr. Belford got off cheaply with a hundred dollars fine."

THE JOURNAL.

The Journal says: "The Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, recently preached a sermon in the Fourth avenue Presbyterian church, in which he denounced all theaters and theatrical shows indiscriminately. His reported words are, 'Even the best of them are haunts of vice.' Almost simultaneously we find Rev. Thomas R. Bacon, of New Haven, speaking from a pulpit in another strain. His words are: 'The church has borne false witness against many worthy persons, in that it has denounced all actors, card-players, billiard-players and dancers together with their actions and games. This denunciation is too sweeping and is unjust.' Most people of moderation, both in and out of the church, will be inclined to agree with the New Haven clergyman, who advised his congregation to discriminate between good and plays, and to reject the bad in the drama as they would in anything else."

THE TIMES.

The Times on the Star-route trial says: "There is an apparent change in the attitude of the public mind toward this trial. There has been much less interest in it than at the former trial and there is almost an entire absence of feeling in regard to it. Dorsey and Brady are no longer regarded as public characters with power and influence.

Answers to Correspondents.

SEVERAL SUBS.—No German tragedian has played an engagement in St. Louis this season. Frederick Haase was here last season. He "enacted" at the People's Theater.

DRUGGIST.—None of the savings banks pay more than four per cent on regular deposits. The big banks don't pay any at all, as a rule.

SEVERAL READERS.—The Irish or Erse language was spoken in Ireland before the English language was ever heard there. It is a written language and is still spoken in some sections of the island.

READER.—We probably have twenty-five bona fide millionaires in St. Louis, though we wouldn't advise you to depend on the tax list for information on this point. Chicago probably has more, but nobody has ever been found yet who could measure the exact value of a Chicago man—not even an administrator.

River and Railway Tonnage.

ST. LOUIS, March 5.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have made a bet that there has been carried to the city of New Orleans by one steamboat, on one trip, more uncompressed cotton than any sail or steam vessel, except the Great Eastern, could carry to any port. There has been carried to New Orleans by the Henry Frank 9,226 bales. By answering the above you will much oblige RIVER.

[No ocean steamship, with the exception of the Great Eastern, could have carried a cargo as large as the one you mention. It would take 308 cars and twelve engines of forty-five tons each, allowing twenty-five cars to an engine to carry as large a cargo as the one conveyed to New Orleans on the steamer Frank. A forty-five-ton engine can draw a train of twenty-five cars, each carrying from twenty-five to thirty bales of cotton, from Texarkana to St. Louis. Three hundred and eight cars and twelve engines, attached together, would make a train two miles in length, allowing thirty-two feet to a car. Laying them side by side, 1,226 bales of cotton, considering the width of each bale to be forty-four inches, would make a line over six and a quarter miles in length. The weight of 9,226 bales, allowing 500 pounds to the bale, would be 2,365 tons. How is this for our river, compared with our railroad transportation, to say nothing of our barge lines? Eight thousand eight hundred and forty-four bales were also carried to New Orleans by the Chas. P. Chouteau, and 8,012 bales by the Great Republic.—ED. P.-D.]

ST. LOUIS, March 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Constitution of the State of Missouri says: "All railroads in this State are hereby declared public highways, and all railroad companies common carriers." What is a public highway? What is the legal definition of a common carrier? If I am willing to pay the owner of the road-bed a just equivalent for use of same have I the right to run a train over the Missouri Pacific Railroad? Should the Legislature legislate first? Answer, please.

Yours, MARK TAPLEY.

[A public highway is a road open to all passengers, but it is not necessarily a free public highway. A common carrier is one who, for hire, transports goods from one place to another. You cannot run your private train over the Missouri Pacific track, or road-bed, because a monopoly of the privilege to operate that highway for the accommodation of the public has been granted by the State to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company.—ED. P.-D.]

The Way They Do It in Maine.

ST. LOUIS, March 8, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Did you mean to say in your yesterday's paper that 1,162 persons are selling liquor in Maine in violation of the "Maine liquor law"?

Yours etc., B. WALTER.

[We meant to say, and did say, that more than 2,000 persons are selling liquor in Maine in violation of the Maine liquor law, and 1,162 of them are doing so under a license from the United States. We have no statistics as to the number of persons who are drinking liquor in Maine in violation of the law, but it must be somewhere in the neighborhood of 250,000.—Ed. P.-D.]

John and Several Citizens Excited.

WASHINGTON, MO., March 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The citizens are terribly excited about the appointment of Dan. Q. Gale as Postmaster. Dan. Q. Gale is a Democrat, who worked for them last fall at the county election, and we citizens object to him being the Postmaster of our town. I think it would be advisable for the Post-office Department to send a special agent hereafter to hear the opinion of the citizens, and not let Mr. Filley appoint the man. Respectfully,

Stilson Hutchins' Marriage.

Washington Special to Cin. Commercial-Gazette, 7th:

Mr. Stilson Hutchins, editor and proprietor of the Post, was united in marriage to Miss Sarita Morrison Brady, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. B. B. French, No. 137 East Capitol street, this evening. The guests present were confined almost entirely to the relatives and friends of the bride and a few intimate personal friends of Mr. Hutchins, every attempt being made to avoid ostentation and display. The presents, which were not exhibited, were large in number and highly valued and prized as expressions of affection and regard for the accomplished lady whom Mr. Hutchins has made his bride. The happy couple left at 9:50 p. m. on an extended trip. They will leave at noon to-morrow on the steamship Canada for Havre. Upon their return they will occupy the beautiful residence now being erected for them, at No. 1603 Massachusetts avenue. The meeting of Mr. Hutchins and his bride came about romantically. Miss Brady had written a criticism of Edwin Booth, then playing in Baltimore, for Mr. Ramsdale, of the Republic. The latter handed it to Mr. Hutchins for the Post. He was so struck with the vigor and beauty of the style that he asked the authorship, and subsequently sought the acquaintance of Miss Brady, an acquaintance that soon ripened into esteem and friendship and culminated in love and marriage. Mr. Hutchins is a man of strong character, softened underneath by rare cultivation and a big heart. He has the warm wishes of hundreds of friends, whose "bon voyage" over the seas and through the summer and winter of his life comes from the heart.

Passing Shadows.

From the Chicago Times.

Mr. Tabor, during his sojourn in the Senate, left a lasting record by his magnificent dinners and uncommonly gorgeous night-shirts, but it is not known that Mr. Sessinghaus has left behind anything by which his extremely brief career as a statesman may be remembered—except his name.

Spring Luxuries.

Cucumbers are selling at forty cents each in the Eastern market, but the demand is light. Five cents' worth of paris green will go further than forty cents in cucumbers, and spring is the time to economize.

MAGOOGIN PHILOSOPHIZES.

The Talking Policeman Tells a Story Illustrative of the Hollowness of Fame.

Officer Magoogin was in excellent humor this morning, and, after telling Fopiano that the new tariff would make tobacco so cheap that even a policeman could not be excused for borrowing a chew of fine-cut, proceeded to laud the Board for having secured a sufficient appropriation to assure every well-behaved patrolman of a little longer lease of life on the force, and was particularly eulogistic of the efforts of his friend Dan Kerwin in bringing about this much-desired condition of affairs.

"There, Fopi," said the officer, skilfully juggling a handful of peeled pecans behind his red mustache; "there is a man desarves immortality, aff there was anything av the koind, but there isn't. Be the polper that pled afore Moses, but if I had me own way, me frind Dan 'ould be canonized to-morrow an' I'd put pitchurs av himself an the blacksmith-shop an the levee in uv'ry pray'r buke bethune here an' Dundhas, an' that's far enough away, God knows. But canonizin' an immortalizin' don't saim to do anny gud anny more. "Arrah, fwhat's the use av talkin' at all, at all, Fopi?" Magoogin continued. "We're all ould enough an' got sinse enough to know that no man's loife is safe these days fwhin he's dead. Fwhat was that Berry Mitchell wanst said about Julius Sayzir's clay sthoppin' up the bung-holes av beer barrels? Faix'n aff Julius wor in the Twelfth Ward this very minit it's the divil's own poor show his consaited clay 'ould sthand av gettin' near a beer kag at all, an' parteckularly fwhile there was a schooner left in the bottom av it. The wurld, Fopi, is makin' quicker time in its revolutions now than it med a hundherd years ago, an' it takes a purty soople an' active loive man to kape up wid it, not to spake at all av a dead wan. Yez may talk av immortality until the tongue fails out av yer head, but, be the toenail av the lasht Pope—the Lord have marcy on his sowl—there ain't anough av it this side of heaven to put in yer eye. The only great min ye hears about these days is the loiks of Prisidint Arthur fwhin he makes a mash on some hoigh-tooned soci'ty leady, ur Jay Gould or Vanderbilt fwhin they takes the bread out av the mouths av three or four hundhred half-starvin' work'in'men. Divil resaive the talk there is at all about annybody that's dead, an' even in our own church fwhere we used to be havin' the litany av the saints uv'ry Sunday, sorra wan av thim do we hear about anny more, except on fistivals, an' it's only St. Pether or St. Pathrick an' a few others loike thim, that are on the very frindliest terms wid the Trinity that we mintions in our ordinary devotions. Fwhinever the minory of a great poet ur shtatesman is brought for'ard av late there is talk about him for menbe a day, an' then he sinks out av soight quicker'n a small b'y failin' from the top av a sivin-sthory house. Did I never tell ye about the foon we had at Teddy Ryan's wake?—Teddy o' the pipes, we used to call him, a soft gommat av an omadhaun that the b'ys had so many molle av lyin' wid him, shticks the fork under Teddy's poll, an', the Lord bethune us an' harm, pushes Teddy up antil he was sittin' bowlt upright on the table. Poor Biddy Magee was the fust to see the dead man roisin', an' she let a roar out of av her yez moight a heerd a molle away. Wud that they all wakes up, and helter skelter, puilin' an' shraikin', they runs out av the house, an' some av thim didn't stop till they war well into the road. Fwhin they war all gone an' the house was impty, Paddy laves the dead man back on the table agin' an' they foinds him there dead an' shtiff as iver fwhin they comes stalin' in. It was a good thing fur Paddy Murrin that he got out the windy afore they could catch him, ur, be the tale av Miles O'Hara's goat, they'd flay him aloive fur the thrick he put upon thim. That's the only sinsation Teddy created after he was dead, an' I guess aff ye cares to inquoire, there's none of thim, big or little, makes any great sthir afther the breath has left them, onless somebody's under their tables wud a pitchfork. An' it's a pity, Fopi, some wan didn't use a fork on George Washin'ton's remains the twinty-sucksond av last nouth, for, be heavens, George appeared to be the deadest corpse I iver kum acrass."

"How many cases of desertion on the part of man or wife do you suppose have come within the last two or three months?" said wm. Steele, general baggage agent of the Union Depot this morning. "GUS WILLIAMS writes all his own songs, words and music," said John Robb, his manager. "He is a composer of considerable merit, and is now engaged with Alfred Cellier in arranging a comic opera for a Boston Church Choir Company. "EGAD, sir," said Col. Normile as he straightened himself up in one of the front rows of the parquette at Pope's last night, and began wiping his glasses preparatory to turning them upon the ballet, "we've got a fine view of the festivities from this place, but I'm afraid if some people see us here, down among the baldheads, they may, as my friend Dogherry said to the watch, suspect by virtue of our office—or position—that we are no true men."

"I HAVE just got back from Mexico," said D. B. Gould, the directory man, "and am delighted with the result of my trip. One thing that struck me forcibly was the poor showing St. Louis made to the matter of streets when compared with some of the old towns I passed through. Why, in Monterey the worst-paved roods I saw were a great deal finer than the best in St. Louis, and there wasn't a thoroughfare there that wasn't well paved."

"THIS is terrible," said Coroner Nidelet, as he lifted a glassful of little drops of water, little grains of sand and chunks of mud in partial solution, and waited to allow the solids to precipitate before imbibing them, "but it seems everything is done for a purpose. "MAGGIE MITCHELL came out and took a spin while she was here last week," Capt. Jennings remarked at the Armory the other night. "She was a pupil of mine, and I have known her for a number of years. As soon as she hears I am near by she always comes to try my horses. She was the first lady to mount in this school, and she rides well. I'll wager, though, that she won't and can't find another such place to ride in as the Armory; there is nothing like it in the country."

"THE gallery boys," said Geo. McManus, of the Opera-house, "are a very bad lot. I never knew them to throw an egg in the audience before, but they often drop tobacco or fire down paper balls, and they tear and destroy everything left within their reach. You haven't any idea of the amount of damage they do to a piece of property like this every year. Some of them resort to the dirtiest kinds of tricks, and it would take a detail of police as large and fine as the entire St. Louis force to keep them in order."

"I AM decidedly in favor of adopting the whipping-post as a method of punishment for incorrigible offenders," observed Mr. Louis Fusz to-day. "I served on a grand jury several months ago, every member of which believed in the whipping-post. It is, in my opinion, the only method of punishment that will ever prove effective in the suppression of hoodlumism. The jail has no terrors for this class, who rather regard it as a comfortable place in which to pass the cold weather, but the lash would undoubtedly bring them to their senses."

"THE taste for æsthetic color-tones has invaded the domain of house-painting," remarked a well-known painter this morning. "There is a private dwelling in North St. Louis, the home of a leading merchant, which is painted a deep maroon, while the cornices and wood-work are in black. The house stands in a little park of its own and the contrast between the fresh green of the grass and foliage and the warm color of the maroon paint is extremely good. You know that in London they have for several years been using high colors in the decoration of exteriors, and the fashion seems to have reached St. Louis. Pretty soon we will have houses painted blue and yellow and green. Why not?"

"DID you hear about Kiraffy's green camel?" Treasurer Dickson asked. "Well, one of the hump-backed critters that appear in the caravan got stuck in a 'run' in the mountain scene, in Chicago, and wouldn't budge until they lowered the curtain and let the 'run' down to the level of stage. Kiraffy thought it was a good opportunity to work an 'ad.' into the newspapers, and told his press agent to go around among the critics and tell them there was a green camel with the outfit. The agent thought Kiraffy was trying to work up a kind of a white elephant boom, and said such a scheme would be ridiculous, the newspapers wouldn't take any stock in a green camel. 'Oh, pshaw!' said Kiraffy, 'you don't understand me; I don't mean a green camel—g-r-e-e-n—but a fresh camel; don't you see? a fresh one.' Funny wasn't it?"

THE Butler Lake Fishing Club, an organization well-known in this city, made its first trip to Chouteau's Slough last Sunday. Speaking of the excursion and the organization ex-Judge Smythe, one of the founders of the club, said: "We made our first excursion last Sunday and had fair luck. I'll tell you what we did meet with, though. We encountered the first and I'll venture to say the largest mosquitoes that will be seen in this vicinity this season." The listeners reminded the Judge of the fact that mosquitoes did not ordinarily put in an appearance in this vicinity until summer months, but he adhered to this statement and said that they were fully developed although they did appear at this early date. The Judge thought that if there was anything curious about this some naturalists had better join the club and see for themselves.

"I CAUGHT up the other day with one of my old Sunday school pupils," said Charlie Ware, of the cavalry company. "You may snicker, boys, but the record shows that I directed a Sabbath class of youths of great promise at the Page Avenue Methodist Church a few years ago. I have not located them all yet, for they are scattered in various paths. The last one I found behind a bar counter. I recognized him in a moment. Another bright lad, one of the best in the class, I met on the base ball grounds last summer; he is pitcher for a professional club. One of the best-behaved boys in the class, a quiet, bashful sort of lad, became infatuated with a variety actress and disposed of her with a bullet. He is now a guest of the State at Jefferson City. Still another I found one day on the street corner directing one of those 'try-your-strength' machines. Some day, if I get time, I intend to have a reunion of the boys. It will be a kind of experience meeting, and it may interest you to be present."

"THESE 'special juries of more than ordinary intelligence' are the plague of my life," said Sheriff Mason; "they cause me more trouble in every way than any other branch of duty in the Sheriff's department. Every lawyer who calls for a special jury expects the best men in the commercial community to be served, and some of them will suggest names of parties to be served as special jurors for the case. If I were to heed their requests, about four dozen prominent merchants would be summoned to the courts twice a week throughout the trial term. The same names are suggested in nearly every case. It is very difficult to supply the demand for special juries and give satisfaction to all parties. I have the matter systematized the best way that the courts can advise. Every summer when business is dull I get the deputies to make a thorough canvass of the city, street by street, and the names of commercial men, about 4,000 in all, are compiled in sheet order in books which I keep locked up in my own desk. When a special jury is ordered I refer to these books and select forty names myself from the list. No one else has anything to do with the selection. As the names are transcribed I check them off on the list to prevent the same parties being summoned again. Yet with all this care it is sometimes difficult to secure a satisfactory panel, and the Sheriff's department gets the blame. Special juries are called now in nearly every important case in the courts, exhausting the list."

JEFFERSON CITY.

Gossip About the Doings of the Legislature.

Fight Over the Appropriations--Various Measures Pending Condemned---Law-Makers Busy.

From Our Special Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 7.—The triumph of the Grangers in the House this morning in forcing on to the elevator bill a clause giving to the Railroad Commissioners the duty of appointing grain inspectors for St. Louis as a matter of course kills the bill. It will now be so loaded down with amendments that its ultimate defeat is assured. The idea of putting the grain interest into the hands of the Railroad Commissioners was born in the Farmers' Caucus, which several members have been led to remark is a most unpatriotic body. There is no lawyers' caucus, notwithstanding the fact that there are forty-one esteemed members of the bar in the House. There is no editors' caucus, notwithstanding the fact that fourteen of Missouri's best newspapers are represented on the floor. It is the farmer alone who arrogates to himself all that is wise and patriotic in legislation. The appropriation bill progresses quite slowly. It took a desperate fight to secure $50,000 for the St. Louis Insane Asylum this afternoon. The St. Joe Asylum was finally allowed the appropriation for water pipes, and Moran is happy. In the Senate this afternoon the Davis bill to call a new Constitutional Convention was ordered to engrossment after a long fight; and the bill to require county authorities to indemnify persons for damages consequent upon the removal of county seats was strangled. The House tired of three sessions a day, and did not meet to-night. Take it all in all, this has been a quiet day in the Legislature. The action of the Governor in pardoning Clarence Hite is the sensation of the day. Ill-health is given as the main reason for the exercise of the executive clemency, and Clarence is supposed to be going home to die. His appearance on the stand as a witness against Frank James is highly probable. The fact of the pardon was carefully concealed until after the west-bound train had departed.

In the Senate Tuesday afternoon the Police Commissioners' bill was up for engrossment. Walker Wear attacked it bitterly, and was quite personal in regard to the Governor when discussing the message of last Saturday. The Senator assumed to believe that the Governor was the victim of a practical joke in the matter of the telegrams he received from Chief Campbell about the Sulphur Springs riot, and then broadly charged that the ear-marks of the Uhrig's Cave meeting were evident in the message. Senator McGrath made a logical, dignified and at times eloquent defense of the bill. Senator O'Brien, who supported it, was impetuous and very much in earnest. Yancey fought the bill. Allen had moved its indefinite postponement, when McGrath saved it from immediate defeat by inducing the Senate to lay it over informally for further discussion. The warmest friends of the measure admit that it is defeated. The bill asked for altogether too much power for the Board; it created several new officers, and while the Senate seem willing to grant St. Louis the relief asked for in an increased force, it refuses to go to the extreme contemplated by the Kerwin bill.

The Senate showed its hand Tuesday afternoon on the military question when it cut down the proposed appropriation of $50,000 for armory rent, etc., to $20,000. Breck Jones recognizes that he has a hard fight before him in the House, but is determined to have it out some night this week. The work of petitioning for a militia bill should have been commenced earlier. Bona fide petitions have great influence with members of the Legislature. The signatures of well-known tax-payers and prominent citizens would go a long ways towards destroying the favorite argument of the enemy of the national guard, that it is only a special organization and that armory rent means the equipment of nice dance halls.

The uppermost topic just now is the gas inspector bill. The water gas people say that the bill is intended to shut them out of the State, and their lobby, which was to-day increased by the arrival of Attorney Fox, is industriously spreading this idea. The outlook for the bill is, to say the least, gloomy.

One important bill passed by the Senate Tuesday provided for a complete geological survey of the State. When that bill gets to the House, it will be treated as kindly as was the watermelon with which Dr. Tanner broke his fast. The element of excitement was given to the night session of the House, by a ferocious debate over a bill leaving to counties the right to adopt stringent measures to restrain domestic animals from running at large. As a rule, all the members from the counties north of the river favor a stock law, while those from the timbered, rocky and swampy counties of the south oppose it. Tuesday night, however, the bill got through, receiving 75 votes to 34 against. The Reagan bill, making the office of Insurance Commissioner elective, was called up to-night, but informalities were discovered in it which brought about its amendment and reconsignment for engrossment. It will be heard of again about two years from now. The Senate Committee on Justices of the Peace held an important meeting Tuesday night, and quietly cut the throat of a bill giving the Justices concurrent jurisdiction with the Court of Criminal Correction. The bill was looked upon as the first step toward the abolition of the Court of Criminal Correction, and Senator Hathaway insisted upon using his tomahawk. The committee will report favorably upon the House bill giving the Circuit Court the power to fill vacancies in the office of Justice of the Peace or Constable, instead of the Mayor, as now.

The appropriation bill is occupying the afternoon sessions of the House. For several days yet the lunatic asylums will be under consideration. A strong fight will be made against the Normal Schools, and lower appropriations than ever before may be anticipated. There is a strong fight on the boards against the State University, as usual. Maj. Rawlins, on the verge of the grave and in his eightieth year, has written a strong appeal to Gov. Crittenden to help out the institution, in the course of which he says:

"I confess that I feel much more than ordinary anxiety about these matters. Enfeebled by age and in poor health, confined almost wholly to my room, I have nevertheless been diligently at work during most of the winter to promote the success of those measures with which I have been so long identified and which would be a crowning glory with me could I see them accomplished whilst I yet live. Looking back over the rugged pathway of life which I have traveled, there are many memories which come to me unbidden, reminding me not only of what has been, but also what might have been accomplished in promoting the great interests of our country and of humanity. I look at the same time with prophetic vision to the future, and contemplate the wonderful results that are to come to the people who are to inhabit this grand commonwealth, and I may add this great and glorious country, when the generation to which you and I belong shall have passed off the stage of action, if wise, enlightened policies are pursued by those who direct the affairs of the State and nation."

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Dr. Davies Gives Some Interesting Facts in Relation to the Subject.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Before the Medico-Legal Society, Wm. G. Davies read a paper on "Mysterious Disappearances and Presumptions of Death in Insurance Cases." "It sometimes happens," he said, "that a man disappears completely from the world, without leaving any ground for conjecture. Two cases recently occurred in this city. In one a man left one dwelling in the evening to go to another. His failure to reach the latter excited alarm, and within an hour the police were on his track. In the other a man left his home to take the train for Boston. No clue has ever been found to either disappearance. Both were happy in their domestic relations, wealthy, free from any cause for anxiety, and never suspected of insanity. Neither had a large sum of money in their pocket at the time, and both left ample means entirely in their own control. The police of many cities had been called upon, but the search was fruitless. One of the most remarkable cases occurred in London many years ago, when a man in comfortable circumstances left his home and was not heard from. Seventeen years afterwards the widow received a request for an appointment with a stranger. Both her children were dead and she had removed to another part of London. The man who had wrote to her was her husband. He had lived under in London from the time of his disappearance in a house from which he could look into the windows of his wife's rooms, and had been aware of the passage of laws regarding his estate owing to his peculiar disappearance. He was sane and lived happily with his wife afterward, but would never explain the cause of his conduct. By the laws of England and America a man who was absent from his country several years without tidings being received could no longer be presumed to be alive. Some years ago insurance policies contained a clause that no presumption of death should arise from disappearance until continued in force by the payment of premiums throughout the time during which the man could have been expected to live according to the company's table of mortality. This appeared to be the fairest rule, as it give to both parties what they had a right to expect when the policy was issued. Gen. G. W. Palmer, of the Custom-house, said he was called on a few months ago by an Englishman to search for the passenger list of a vessel which left England in 1792, and in which the man's grandsire had sailed. He had never been heard from, and fourteen years after his appearance the courts administered on his estate. The name was found and the man was traced to Michigan where he had accumulated a large estate and left it to later heirs. The action of both English and American courts was overthrown, and both estates were administered according law."

"ELIJAH."

The Third Performance of the New York Oratorio Society.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The third performance this season of the Oratorio Society took place at the Academy of Music last night in the presence of a large and brilliant audience, which manifested its enjoyment of the entertainment. Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was the oratorio given, a work which, except at the society's public rehearsal, has not been given here for two years. It returned with that freshness which is always found in a masterwork after a short period of absence. The history of "Elijah" is one of the most stirring stories in the Old Testament. The two great incidents in the prophet's life—his victory over the priests of Baal and his wonderful death—are powerfully dramatic. The composer is led into the composition of strong music, and the vocal parts are strong throughout. Dr. Damrosch is to be congratulated on his choice of singers. Mr. Max Heinrich brings to the part of Elijah a rich baritone voice, excellent method, great depth of feeling and true sincerity of purpose. There was no mistaking the deep spirit of earnestness in his singing, while the technical beauties of his work were sufficient. He touched the key-note of his performance in his prayer for the widow's son, and he reached an admirable plane of vocal excellence in "Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel." The scene with the priests of Baal

WAS FINELY GIVEN,

the scornful "Call Him Louder," being replete with dramatic energy. Mr. Heinrich was equally successful with the beautiful air "It is Enough." Miss Emily Winant sang the music of Jezebel with genuine excellence. She has perfect control of her rich contralto voice, which is admirably suited to music of a dramatic nature. Mme. Gabriel Boema, who was the leading soprano of the evening, has a strong voice and shows evidences of training for the operatic stage. Her faults are fondness for explosive attacks, and a tendency to sing forte at all times. Mr. Jules Gordon gave the tenor parts with care and judgment. His aria, "If With All Your Hearts," was a very pleasant piece of vocalization. The other singers of the double quartet were Mrs. O. H. Fellows, Mrs. F. J. Kirpal, Mr. H. Bersin and Mr. Emile Coletti. The chorus was in full force, and executed its numbers with precision and adequate diversity of shading. The orchestra, whose work in this oratorio, as has been intimated, is chiefly to afford ample support to the voices, was excellent throughout. Dr. Damrosch is to be highly commended for the generalship he displayed in the handling of his forces and the scholarly thought shown in the rendering of the music.

REDUCED TO ASHES.

Seventeenth Cremation at the Le Moyne Furnace—A Curious Will.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, PENN., March 8.—The seventeenth human body has been reduced to ashes in the Le Moyne Crematory to-day. The body disposed of was the corpse of Henry Seibert, a wealthy resident of Philadelphia, the first subject from the City of Brotherly Love. Mr. Seibert has been an advocate of cremation for years, and was one of a small number who had about concluded to begin the experiment of another crematory, to be situated in or near Philadelphia. Religious services were held in Philadelphia in one of the Episcopal churches, of which Mr. Seibert was a member. The body left Philadelphia last night and should have arrived here at 11 o'clock this morning. Owing to an accident the cremation party, consisting of Jos. Norris, Brook Wright and R. R. Bringhurst, an undertaker, did not reach this place till 5 o'clock this morning. On reaching the crematory the clothing of the dead man was removed at the request of George S. Pepper, one of the executors, who was anxious that should find its way into the ashes. The corpse was then wrapped in an alum soaked sheet, lifted into the oven crib and shoved into the retort. Only two hours elapsed when the body was satisfactorily reduced. The ashes will be taken away on Friday by the gentleman who accompanied the body, not until which time will the retort be sufficiently cool to allow their removal. All that is now left of the dead man will be placed in an urn and deposited in Laurel Hill Cemetry. By Mr. Seibert's will $250,000 will be divided among several public institutions. Mr. Seibert was a bachelor, and left no relatives nearer than his cousins, the members of the Pepper family, who are named as his executors. He was a spiritualist, and in giving $60,000 to the University of Philadelphia for the endowment of a chair of mental phyisical philosophy, he stipulated that an impartial investigation of modern spiritualism shall be made.

AMONG OTHER BEQUESTS

are $10,000 to the Educational Home, $5,000 each to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Children's Hospital; $2,000 each to the Pennsylvania Hospital University, the Episcopal and Presbyterian hospitals, the deaf and dumb and blind asylums, the Society for Alleviating the Miseries of Prisons, the Philosophical Society, the Franklin Institute, the Academy of Natural Sciences, the Academy of Fine Arts, the Philadelphia Club, and $10,000 each to almost every other charitable and educational institution in Philadelphia.

"PARROTING."

Mrs. Langtry's Failure to Improve Sharply Criticized—Freddie's Trials and Disappointments.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The matinee given by the Langtry company yesterday afternoon at Haverly's, was largely attended. Mrs. Langtry shows no sign of improvement since her former appearance, and to see her do the same thing in precisely the same way after an interval of some weeks, induces a more pronounced suspicion than before of what is called "Parroting." The audience was generally cold and unresponsive. Mr. Gebhardt appeared at the Grand Pacific Hotel yesterday much to the surprise of Sam Turner.

"Want a room?" said the clerk.

"Ahem, aw, no," replied Mrs. Langtry's escort. "We are stopping in our palatial car, elegant quarters, I assure you, quite sufficient and good enough for a fellow, you know. By the way, I sent my man down to get Mrs. Lantry's letters and a trunk which was sent on by express, but the awkward fellow has gone down to the slip, and he's down in the cabin of the yacht Idler. Did you ever see such a rumpus? It's a deuced pretty mess to put a fellow into at this time of day," and then Mr. Gebhardt went to the bar and called for a drink of gin.

The Illinois Insane.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

ELGIN, ILL., March 8.—The trustees of the Northern Hospital for the Insane, located here, held their quarterly meeting here. The Board discussed at some length the question of making room for new cases. There are now in the hospital 530 cases, and its capacity is overtaxed. Within a few weeks the Superintendent has been compelled to refuse admission to numerous applicants. It was finally decided to get rid of incurables as fast as possible, and eleven of such were ordered returned to the places they were sent from forthwith. Of this number four are from Will county. The Superintendent will further thin out the army of demented, that new cases wherein there is ground for hope for restoration to reason, may be admitted for treatment.

CURIOUS SUIT.

How a Young Man's Uncle Broke Up His Family.

Edward W. Schnell Wants $50,000 Because His Wife's Affections Were Alienated--Detectives and Others Tell the Story.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—In the Kings County Supreme Court, before Justice Cullen, the trials has been commenced of the remarkable suit of Edward W. Schnell to recover $50,000 damage from his uncle, Frederick Blohm, for the estrangement of the wife of the plaintiff. The defendant is a rich commission merchant, a widower, and has grown-up daughters, while the plaintiff's wife is but twenty-eight years of age. Mrs. Schnell was in court. She is of rather prepossessing appearance, with luxuriant black hair, large, lustrous black eyes, full face and color, thick, ruddy lips, and a rather prominent nose. She was attractively dressed in a black silk with velvet trimmings, and wore a maroon plush hat. Her ornaments were black and gold. The defendant is a peculiar looking man, very thin, and has thin gray hair. He sat beside his counsel during the opening of Mr. Schmidt for the plaintiff. Mr. Henry Schmidt opened the case for the plaintiff, making a strong appeal to the jury. Edward Schnell, plaintiff, testified that defendant and he had been informed he was present at his marriage. He gave a detailed statement of a trip to Europe and of his uncle's attention to his (witness,) wife in Europe, on the steamer, and subsequently in the city. He testified that at an interview with his wife on the steamer he told her he did not want the defendant and her so much together. She replied that it was her uncle. The witness replied that he did not care, he did not want her in his company any more. Plaintiff told his wife, at this interview, that he was going to tell the defendant what he thought of him. He went to the defendant and told him about the occasion when he saw him enter his wife's room, and said that she was a different woman now from what she used to be. He accused the defendant of giving his wife money. Defendant said that as soon as they got into port they would get a thousand miles apart. On one occasion witness' wife said she either by fair or false means.

WAS HIS UNCLE,

On cross-examination, the plaintiff said he had never noticed any intimacy on the part of defendant and his wife prior to his trip to Europe. One day he overheard a conversation in a hushed voice. He heard his wife say to the defendant, "That will do now—go away." He subsequently saw the defendant come out of her room, look cautiously around and then go back again. He testified as to finding the letters in question, and they were offered and admitted in evidence. The witness and his wife had some little difficulty about four years ago, when he charged her with seeking somebody else's company. He denied, however, having charged her with being intimate with any man on that occasion.

Edwin Goldschmidt, a private detective, testified to being engaged to watch Mrs. Schnell and her uncle. He informed Blohm that Schnell had found his letters to Mrs. Schnell and probably a suit for divorce would result. "All right," was the defendant's reply. "I'm glad of it." Henry Weber, sexton to a church on Second avenue, swears to being employed by Schnell to watch his wife. He though he had never been a detective. In 1878, when Mr. Schnell was in Europe, witness saw his wife going out with a druggist. Once Weber saw her going down town in a Second avenue car. At Sixteenth street she met this druggist, and then she and he took a cab and drove down to West street and then back to Lafayette Place. Witness followed them in another cab. On another occasion Mr. Druggist and Mrs Schnell went to a picnic in Jones' Woods. In May, 1882, Mrs. Schnell lived with her mother in Fifth street, this city. Witness saw Blohm at the house. At one time he noticed the couple alone in a room together, but he did not observe anything improper about their conduct. Samuel Price, a bootblack and private messenger, employed in the latter capacity in the Twenty-ninth Precinct Police Station, this city, was the last witness called. A legal controversy arose over the admission of his testimony, and, pending its decision, the trial was adjourned until to-day.

CURE YOURSELF.

Bohannan's "Vegetable Curative" cures all Nervous Diseases, Mental and Physical Weakness, General Debility, Kidney Complaints, Organic Weakness, or any of the train of evils arising from Indiscretion, Over Brain Work, OR ANY OTHER CAUSE, which often terminate in Consumption or Insanity. Many men, from the effects of Youthful Imprudence, have brought about a state of weakness that has reduced the general system so much as to induce symptoms of nearly every other disease, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever being suspected they are doctored for everything but the right one. Notwithstanding the many valuable remedies that medical science has produced for the relief of this class of patients, none of the ordinary modes of treatment effect a cure as promptly as BOHANNAN'S VEGETABLE CURATIVE.

It has been used by old Dr. Bohannan in his private practice for over thirty years, has never failed in curing even the Worst Cases. The patient gains strength and elasticity of spirits at once, as it acts directly on the parts affected as a soothing and healing tonic and anodyne, imparting power and tone and restoring them to their natural state, the same as if never affected. The ingredients are simple productions of nature—barks, roots, herbs, etc., and are a specific for the above diseases. Permanently curing most cases in from two to seven weeks time.

☞ Price Five Dollars sent to any address. For sale only at Bohannan's Drug Store, No. 621 North Fifth Street, corner of Christy avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

The Spring Bonnet.

From the Detroit Free Press.

"Thirty dollars—fifteen dollars for a spring bonnet!" gurgled Jones, as he looked from the bill to his wife. "Mrs. Jones, it's an outrage—a gross imposition."

"Yes, but that's the price."

"I'd better have married a milliner instead of a society lady!"

"Yes, that's what all my friends seem to think!" she demurely replied.

He got red in the face and growled and kicked the foot-stool across the room, but by and by looked up and said:

"And by the way, darling, you'd better get one of those $10 hats which become you so, too. I want you to look pretty, no matter what the cost."

Fate of a Georgia Sparrow.

From the Thomasville Enterprise.

While Dr. J. T. Metcalfe was out on one of his hunts in the country the other day he came across a sparrow which had been decapitated and transfixed on a thorn. The doctor's intimate knowledge of the habits of the genus avis led him at once to understand the cause of so novel a sight. It seems that this sparrow had fallen a victim to a rapacious bird known as the "butcher bird," which strikes its prey with its beak, kills it, pulls off its head and impales it on a thorn or twig for greater convenience in pulling it to pieces.

Wilbor's Cod Liver-Oil and Lime.—Persons who have been taking Cod-Liver Oil will be pleased to learn that Dr. Wilbor has succeeded, from directions of several professional gentlemen, in combining the pure Oil and Lime in such a manner that it is pleasant to the taste, and its effects in Lung complaints are truly wonderful. Very many persons whose cases were pronounced hopeless, and who had taken the clear oil for a long time without marked effect, have been entirely cured by using this preparation. Be sure and get the genuine. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

Keeping the Hearth-Fire Burning.

From the Statesville Landmark.

One of the grand jurors for the superior court at this term was Ephraim Scroggs, of Fallstown township, concerning whom a singular and interesting little incident may be told. Mr. Scroggs has now burning on his hearth the same fire which he started when he went to housekeeping fifty years ago. From the day the fire was started to this it has never been permitted to go out. Summer and winter for these fifty years it has been replenished as occasion requires. From a roaring heap it has dropped many a time to a bed of smouldering coals, but it has never been permitted to turn to ashes.

Pure Cod-Liver Oil made from selected livers on the sea-shore, by CASWELL, HAZARD & Co. New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

YELLOWPLUSH.

The Etiquette Among the Servants of the Wealthy.

The Wages Paid and the Duties and Perquisites of Their Office.

From the New York Morning Journal.

When the late Mr. Thackeray wrote his Jeemes de la Plush Papers the "Servants' Hall" was an unknown institution in the United States. Since then, however, the corner grocery aristocracy of New York have recognized its importance as a comparatively new factor in social ethics, and is now the rule rather than the exception to have from ten to twenty servants on the staff of the domestic establishment of ultra wealthy families. The "gentleman's gentlemen" appear on the whole to have a pretty good time of it; good living, good pay, expensive liveries, with comparatively little to do, may be said to form the sum total of their existence. A favorite "house of call," or as they term it, the "Servants' Club," is an hostelry on Sixth avenue, between Fifty-second and Fifty-third streets, where they meet and discuss the wrongs and rights of their calling, and relate the gossip pertaining to the families by whom they are employed.

Here Vanderbilt's footman hobnobbed with Jay Gould's valet or Mrs. Van de Warde Hewson's coachman. As a particular favor a Journal reporter obtained admission to this select circle, composed of Englishmen, Frenchmen and Germans, with a sprinkling of the colored persuasion. To the credit of the native American it should be said that, so far, his manhood still retains a strong repugnance to blacking boots, wearing livery, waiting etc., at the table for so much a month. The predominating element in this assemblage was Englishmen. Your thoroughbred English servant can never be taken for other than what he is, and in the possession of these domestic paragons, the New York millionaires are especially fortunate.

THE ETIQUETTE OF THE SERVANT'S HALL.

"And how do you like service in America?" inquired the reporter of a smooth-faced gentleman in a striped green and red vest, whose nationality was unmistakable.

"It's tol'ble. Hall things considered, hit's tol'ble," with due emphasis.

"How does it compare with with service in England."

"The pickins is good—very good, but the hignorance is simply orful."

"In what sense do you mean?"

"I mean as our most Hamerican fam'lies don't know nuthink about hettiquet. I've bin in this city nigh on two year, and there hain't a season but wot they don't hask my advice on points of hettiquet. Why, it was honly the other day as my missus wanted to know ow the table ought to be set for dinner. 'Hask the first cook, maam,' says I, for I wasn't engaged to dress tables, but honly to wait on 'em. I told the French cook, and he got orful waxy. It ud never do, yer know, fer me to be a hinterferin with the cook."

"But don't you think it was a compliment to your experience?"

"Missus meant well, hive no doubt, and so she ho[illegible]ein' as I've lived in two lords' frm'lies, and waited on a Russian count for more nir a year."

DOMESTIC ORGANIZATION.

"Then you can explain, doubtless, the organization of the servant's department?"

"There's no one better. But hain't yer dry?" After calling for two whiskys 'ot the gentleman proceeded: "The 'ed of the establishment is the steward. But there's very few Hamericans as keeps reg'lar stewards. Butlers in this country gen'lly does the steward's work, and a pretty good thing they make hout of it. They mostly gits $700 in wages and three suits a year, but they make double that in perquisites and commissions and private tips.

"Afore a butler goes to a place the first thing he hasks himself is, 'Wot is this place worth?' and if he don't see his way to making twice his wages he won't take it. Lor' bless yer hart, the wages haint nothink. He gets his whack from the wine merchant, and he can save on 'is clothes. If he makes two suits do the place of three he'll get the tailor to allow him for the suit he don't want, and it's charged to the master's account. After the butler comes the valet. His perquisites are not to be sneezed at, for he gets his master's old clothes, nearly as good as new, besides lots of tips. Some on 'em make $400 or $500 a year hextra, particlir when the fam'lys on its European tower. The first footman's pickin's is mostly in tips, too; he gets the flowers left after receptions and balls, which he sells hover again. The 'all porter's place is quite a nice thing for a man that knows his business."

"How about the coachman?"

"'Es got 'is hown men to look hafter, sich as grooms, 'elpers and stablemen. He hain't got a bad thing either, for between his tips from the veterinary surgeons and the 'arness-makers and a good sum now and agin from the sale of a hoss, I guess 'is place is wuth hall the way from $800 hup, with 'is board, lodgin' and clothes found."

FEMALE SERVANTS' PERQUISITES.

"I suppose the same rules apply to female servants also?"

"Yes, and some on 'em make more than we do. The lady's maids, who are mostly French or German, come in for lots o' things—silk dresses, laces, and very often sums o' money; 'cos, yer see, their's is a confidential position, and they don't change much. Hi could tell yer some very tidy stories which I 'ave 'eard from lady's maids, and they'd make hinterestin' readin'; but, ov course, I wouldn't do that, 'cos it's against the rules of hour profession."

"What is a lady's maid's place worth?"

"In a good rich family wot dont' know much. I should say it's wuth nigh on a thousand a year one way and another. After the lady's maid comes the upper 'ousemaid wot, sees the rooms properly dusted; then there's the second 'ousemaid wot attends to the fires and sweepin' hout. The third 'ousemaid keeps the lower part of the 'ouse in order. 'Ousemaids don't get much, not more than twenty dollars a month. Kitchen maids sell the fat and scraps which comes to something in the course of a year, while the cooks chips in with the butchers and grocers, for they can horder almost what they like. Hamericans, yer see, will spend their money and they haint particulir about the hitems."

COST OF RECEPTIONS AND BALLS.

"Have you any notion of the cost of a ball or reception during the height of the season?"

"I can give yer a pretty fair hidea. A friend 'o mine told me that at a ball given by Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt last winter the bills footed up to $8,000 for wines, fruits, flowers and hextra attendance. Why, an Henglish family wouldn't spend 'alf the money. I know for a fact that at a certain ball given by a family in Fifty-seventh street, a friend that's in service there, got no less than $30 in tips for 'elpin' the gents hon with their hovercoats. Some families don't hallow that, but their people never stay with 'em more than a month at a time. They're holways changing, and families that change never gets good servants. 'Live an' let live' is my motto, fair' fan hall the world over. Our knowledge of langwidge makes us worth all we gits."

At this point the Duke de Morny's confidential retainer was announced and the gentleman in the green and red vest excused himself to accord due honors to so distinguished an individual.

A Classic Gourmand.

From the Norristown Herald.

All sorts of gastronomic feats are reported. Eating a salt mackerel a day for three weeks, or three boarding-house spring chickens a week for six months, or a brace of quail a day for thirty days, may be considered difficult feats in our day, but look at the achievements of the ancients in this line! There was Polyphemus, for instance, who had a single eye to epicurean feasts. When Ulysses and his companions were thrown into the country of the Cyclops, they sought shelter in Polyphemus' Cave, and that gentleman ate two of the Greek intruders, bones and all, for his supper, without calling for a bottle of pepsine or any other aid to digestion. Polyphemus ate a brace of Greeks daily for several days, and odds were wagered that he would keep it up for thirty days; but his supply ran out—and escaped, with Ulysses at their head. That's the kind of a quail eater the one eyed Polyphemus was.

ENOCH-ARDENISH.

A Soldier Husband's Return From Long Captivity.

Troy (N. Y.) Special to Chicago Tribune.

A highly-romantic case was brought to light to-day. About twenty years ago Eliza Bussey, of this city, was married to Frank Lee. The couple lived together about four years and a daughter was born to them. Lee then went to New York in search of work. It was after the close of the Civil War, and he was twenty-three years old. One unlucky day he got drunk and enlisted in the United States Army. Before he could realize his position he was on his way West, and the command in which he enlisted was sent to Arizona to fight Indians. Lee wrote to his wife a statement of the case, and she, resigning herself to fate, secured work in a Troy collar manufactory. Lee was taken prisoner by the Indians and was a captive three years. His young wife was distracted. She knew nothing of her husband's captivity, and supposed he had deserted her. Suddenly a letter was received by her brother-in-law, from a soldier in Arizona, stating that Frank had undoubtedly been killed by Indians. This was four years after he left Troy, and two years after Mrs. Lee, supposing herself a widow, married Merrill Cody, and went to live with him in West Troy. When Lee learned his wife had remarried he determined not to disturb her, and continued fighting the red-skins. Mrs. Lee found that her second marriage was as unlucky as the first. She received substantial evidence that Cody had a wife and a young child in Silver Falls, and when she asked him about this he said he and a divorce. He never showed it, however. Mrs. Lee found it necessary to continue work in a cotton-shop in order to support herself and the daughter she had by Lee. In the meantime the young daughter grew up to womanhood, and when she had passed her 16th year in 1880 she married a young Trojan and son of a wealthy citizen. The mother then left Cody and resided permanently with her daughter. Lee, abandoning his warfare against the Indians, had gone to California and secured a position on the police force. As he grew somewhat in riches the longing for home came to him. He determined to come and see his mother and brothers. He had no intention of disturbing his former wife. He arrived in Troy Saturday. An uncontrollable desire to see his daughter prompted him to call at her residence. He introduced himself as a sewing-machine agent. He told her he had known her father well, and for two hours and a half he talked to her, asking her questions, which the young wife, not suspecting the identity of the man, thought very strange. Then he left the house, but shortly after reappeared and his wife answered his knock. The recognition was mutual, and the scene that followed can be imagined. Cody stated that he intended to have the woman arrested for bigamy. Lee declares his intention of immediately starting with his wife for California. Cody has employed counsel to thwart such a move.

A New Enoch.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

"What're you doing here?" demanded a policeman of a chap whom he had caught peeping in at the window of a Furman street house last night.

"Nothin'," replied the man, jamming his hands in his pockets and gazing up at the sky.

"Didn't I hear a woman yell in that house a few minutes ago?" continued the policeman.

"Shouldn't wonder," returned the man, carelessly. "In fact, I know you did, for I heard her myself."

"What's going on in there?" queried the policeman, peeping in.

"I guess he's licking my wife," suggested the stranger.

"Do you live nere?" asked the policeman in some astonishment.

"I used to, but I kinder fell out o' the habit lately," was the indifferent response.

"What kind of a man are you to stand out here and let another man lick your wife?" demanded the policeman, indignantly.

"I think he can do it better than I can," growled the stranger. "I never had any luck at that kind of a job, and if there's any one can make a success of it I'm not going to interfere with his fun now, you bet!"

"Who is the man? Do you know him?"

"Never saw him before," replied the stranger. "I guess he and she thinks he's her husband."

"And it's your wife?"

"Sure! Only I've been away a long time—shipwrecked, you know—and I just got home. I saw 'em at it, and I thought I wouldn't interfere."

"Do you want me to arrest him?" inquired the policeman, contemplating the returned husband in amazement.

"Just as you like," returned the other; "only don't mention my name in the matter."

"But don't you propose to do anything about it?"

"Well, now, you just bet! Just as soon as that man winds off that job he's going to be dry, and if I've got a quarter anywhere he's going to get a drink, and don't you interfere now, you hear me?"

And the policeman strolled off down the silent street, while Enoch, bending low his chin upon the window that contained Annie, absorbed the scene, then turned him round as Philip came the while a little ahead of a flat iron and took him by the arm. And so they went, and Annie left alone wot not that Enoch had been so near, and had him shekels in his pocket wherewith to assuage the grief of Philip.

What a Burglar's Outfit Is.

From the Cleveland Leader.

Bank burglars' tools are generally of a very superior order, gathered with care and piece-meal until the kit is made up. A full kit of the best order is worth $2,000. Mechanics of a superior class exist in large cities who make a specialty of fashioning burglars' tools. In the absence of such a mechanic the tools are collected in parts, but as this is a risky way of obtaining them it is avoided, if possible. Kits of the tobyman's tools are kept on hand for hire and a good collection can be obtained in the centres of the business for from $100 to $200.

A Tattooed Lady.

Miss Irene Woodward is a handsome young lady of medium stature, who, if met on the street in ordinary costume, would attract only the passing attention usually given to a pretty woman. She is nineteen years old, educated, refined and very winning in her manners, but these attractions alone might not count for much, if it were not that under her street costume she conceals a quantity of tattooing that for extent and beauty rivals even the gorgeous India-ink arabesquery with which the dark skin of Capt. Costentenus, the Greek, is adorned. She is now on exhibition at Sackett's Dime Museum on South Fifth street. She appears on the platform in bodice and trunks of embroidered cardinal satin trimmed with white lace; the arms, lower limbs and neck are displayed and as they are covered with figures and emblems in blue and red, all joined by delicate tracery the sight is an unusually beautiful one. There are 270 distinct pictures on Miss Woodward's body and limbs, all the subjects being American and of the kind affected by sailors. Her father, she says, was an English sailor who began the tattooing when she was six years old and finished it by the time she reached 12. Her brother who died last year in Denver was tattooed in the same way. She has been on exhibition now a year, and recently in New York created a furore among fashionable ladies who came to her to have tattooing done. Costentenus is now in England. Miss Woodward is the only tattooed lady in this country.

'CHANGE NOTES.

Gleanings of the Day at the Merchants' Exchange.

The Merchants' Manifest, a publication which gives the daily receipts of all kinds by rail an river in St. Louis, has lately been denied these reports by certain railroads for some reason or other. In consequence the reliability and value of the Manifest has been seriously interfered with. The receivers and shippers who for years have depended upon the Manifest, and during all that time found it's reports correct and worthy of their support and confidence, have united in a petition to the roads asking that the Manifest be allowed to use their daily report of receipts as during the past.

Committees have been appointed on 'Change to solicit subscriptions in aid of the Shawneetown sufferers. It is confidently believed by those who have this liberal undertaking in charge that a liberal amount will be raised to help relieve the distress now prevailing in that flooded town. The hope is expressed that the ladies of St. Louis will come forward with donations of clothes, shoes, bedding, etc. There is great suffering among the poor people of Shawneetown, owing to the change to cold weather, as few of them have the necessary clothing to protect them from this severe change in the temperature. By collecting any old clothes, shoes, bedding and other articles that may be lying around their houses, and sending them to Secretary Morgan, of the Merchants' Exchange, the ladies of St. Louis would aid materially in relieving the suffering that now exists and which needs instant relief.

Mr. Louis Roth left last evening for New Orleans, from whence he will shortly return to Paris, France, where he will engage in the grain importing business. Mr. Roth was kept busy yesterday afternoon attending to the many friends who called upon him for a final grasp of the hand and a hearty God-speed. Speaking to a friend, Mr. Roth said it was with real sorrow he left St. Louis. He had formed many business and social ties that were agreeable and pleasant. He had been treated with the greatest consideration and kindness by all with whom he had been brought in contact. Especially had this been the case with the barge line officers, who had extended to him all the facilities possible for a rapid and steady shipment of the grain he bought for Europe. While Mr. Henry Haarstick was managing the line, Mr. Roth said he had no difficulty in obtaining tonnage when the company had it. He thought the charge of favoritism shown by the Barge company was false and outrageous.

It is expected that the Board of Trade Telegraph Company, which is controlled and to be managed by the Boards of Trade of Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee, will have all connections made and its office open for business on 'Change by next week at the farthest. As soon as this is done arrangements will probably be made whereby the St. Louis grain market quotations will be telegraphed to and posted on the Chicago and Milwaukee Exchanges at short intervals throughout each business day. Heretofore these markets have received no regular St. Louis markets, and St. Louis merchants visiting Chicago or Milwaukee were unable to obtain their market quotations without great difficulty and inquiring around for private messages. It is confidently believed that the frequent posting of St. Louis markets abroad will result in increased business, as speculative attention will be attracted by seeing this market's figures frequently and thus be induced to send orders here. It is the expressed wish of a good many members that the St. Louis quotations be sent regularly and frequently to New York, Toledo, Baltimore, Detroit, Kansas City, and other leading points throughout the country. Even if it costs the Exchange a certain amount to have this done, it is confidently believed that the returns in the way of an increased business and prominence it would give this market would more than remunerate the Exchange for the outlay of money.

"What do yon think of these cattle sales at the National Yards yesterday," said Burt Hunt, "6½@6¾c is a good price, but they were worth it. I expect that when Chicago hears of this, to see as high as 7c obtained up there. They can't beat us, however. Cattle are and have been bringing more money here than in any market in the country. We have put them on the top shelf and buyers are obliged to stand on tip-toe to reach them. Next week I anticipate a decline. These high prices yesterday are going to cause a large run. This thing of there being no stock in the country is a mistake. Farmers have been holding back their cattle in expectation of big prices and will now rush them in. North Missouri and Kansas have plenty of cattle, and there are more being fed in the Indian Nation and Texas than ever was known before. Now you see if I ain't right. We will have all we can handle next week, and values will consequently be lower. If they fail to arrive? Well, then I'm mistaken, and there are no cattle in the country.'

Boyd Memorial—Flimsy Damage Suit—A Quarryman Nearly Buried Alive.

A meeting of the bar was called this afternoon in the United States Court-room for the purpose of taking appropriate action upon the death of S. S. Boyd.

In Judge Lubke's Court to-day the trial of Adam Geiser's damage suit against Philip F. Stifel is engaging the attention of a jury. The plaintiff was the employ of Stifel at a quarry, and was working on one of the ledges when the bank above him caved in and he was buried up to the shoulders. After being extricated it was found that he had sustained severe internal injuries. The employer contends that the accident was the result of the plaintiff's own carelessness.

The jury in the case of A. S. Austin against the St. Louis and St. Paul Packet Company returned a verdict and judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $500. This was a damage claim on account of injury and loss of goods shipped from the North down the river by barge which struck the bridge at Davenport. Some of the goods, including furniture, were recovered. An organ, after several days' soaking in the water, was fished out.

Letters of administration have been granted to Alexander Martin, administrator of William H. Lackland, the deceased barrister. Estate valued at $20,000.

Col. Crawford filed a petition this morning in the Circuit Court in behalf of William F. Fiquet seeking a decree of divorce from Elina Fiquet. They were married in Bates county in June, 1872, and lived together until March 1 of the present year. Mr. Fiquet alleges that during the whole of their married life he treated his wife with kindness and furnished her with the comforts of home. He charges, however, that she became improperly intimate with a party on Locust street and that those relations extended over the past six months.

Messrs. Brown & Hamm's damage case in behalf of Thomas Williams and wife against Wm. J. Robinson was promptly non-suited when the court, Judge Adams, heard the evidence given before the jury. Damages in the thousands were asked of Mr. Robinson, on the ground that when he went to collect rent he so frightened and upset Mrs. Williams that she gave premature birth to a child. It was clear that the evidence presented no ground for recovery and Judge Adams promptly sat down upon the case. A more frivolous, flimsy pretext for a suit could scarcely have been suggested. The distinguished attorneys who figured in the case for the plaintiffs, it will be remembered, recently met with a crushed defeat at the hands of a grand jury in the case of Cattell against the POST-DISPATCH relative to the Richmond room-house.

PLAYERS' PROFITS.

The Local Managers Declare the Present Season a Success.

Some of the Paying Attractions—Melodrama a Very Remunerative Feature—Remaining Attractions.

The end of the present theatrical season is not very far off. No theater is yet prepared to announce the date of its closing, but it is very generally understood that the beginning of June will find interest in theatricals on the wane here, and very few, if any, attractions remaining. The season has been a very ordinary one so far as its artistic character is concerned. It has presented little that combined the qualities of novelty and merit. What has been new has as a rule been of an inferior quality, while the old features have been offered with less satisfactory surroundings that in previous seasons. The New York season has been a record of failures in the line of novelties, and the whole country has, of course, had to share the misfortunes of the metropolis. There has not been a single good comedy produced since last September, and the musical ventures have everywhere proved flat failures. Marsden, Maeder, Jessup and Gill, and the rest of the army of American dramatists have given the public nothing worth preserving or commending, while Gilbert and Sullivan's work has been barely acceptable and has not made a triumph even in the wild and presumably barbarous West. Stars who have earned the favor of the public in past seasons have tried to travel mainly on their old reputations, and foolishly attempted to make the public accept their poor and cheap supporting companies. Only such sterling actors as Salvini and John McCullough have condescended to provide first-class companies for the presentation of their plays, the others generally contenting themselves with "faking" out performance in the best way that bad actors and poor accessories can do so. The result, as suggested before, is that the season has not been a good one from a play-goer's standpoint. The managers, however, seem pleased with the financial rewards it has brought them. They claim, almost to a man, to have made plenty of money, and it will be seen some go so far as to say that it has surpassed previous seasons in this respect.

MANAGER JOHN W. NORTON,

of the Grand Opera-house and Olympic, when interviewed by a POST-DISPATCH reporter this morning, said both his establishments had made money. Business was 33⅓ per cent better than last season. There had been some extraordinary engagements, such as Joe Emmet's, Lotta's, Mrs. Langtry's, the opera week, and so on. Melodrama had done well. Not one of the melodramatic attractions, except, possibly, "The World," which was in its second season, had taken less than $7,000 a week here. The "Romany Rye," he thought, would pay as much as the others. Comedy had been a paying feature. The Harrisons' week was about the only poor one in this line. Musical attractions had not done very well, but minstrelsy paid splendidly, particularly Thatcher, Primrose and West, who had very large houses. The pooled theaters would close about June 1. Among the remaining attractions were Ludwig Barnay, the German tragedian, "Taken from Life," John McCullough, Robson and Crane in a spectacular revival of "The Dromios"; McKee Rankin in his new play, "The Americans"; "Monte Cristo," from Booth's Theater, with James O'Neill in the company; Wallack's company in "The Silver King"; Daly's company in "The Squire"; Rice's Surprise Party; Barry & Fay in "Irish Aristocracy"; McCaull's Opera Company, with Miss Lillian Russell as the star feature; the Barton Company in "Iolanthe;" Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels, Lawrence Barrett, Roland Reed, Mlle. Rhea (the French actress), Charles Bishop in "Strictly Business" and "Rooms for Rent."

MANAGER JOSEPH ROBERTSON,

of the People's Theater, said he was doing better this season than last, and was satisfied with the financial outlook. He had found comedy and specialty attractions the best. Since the holidays the weather had been uncertain and business had fallen off, but prior to that the engagements had been as a rule successful. Geo. Knight and his wife appear here next week in "Otto" and "Baron Rudolph." Some of the other attractions remaining are Charles L. Davis in "Alvin Joslyn," Adams and Forepaugh's "Humpty Dumpty," Oliver Doud Byron in "Across the Continent," Charles Gardener and Patti Rosa in "Carl," Carrie Swain in "Mat, the Romp," Wm. J. Scanlan, the Irish comedian, and Tony Denier's Company in spectacular pantomime. Mr. Robertson has a few open weeks left and thinks he will close about the middle of June.

MANAGER CHAS. POPE

does not agree with the other gentlemen in regard to the success of the season.

"I do not think there is any use in romancing about the matter," said Mr. Pope to the reporter, "I am making no money, I must confess, and doing well enough, but I am not doing as well as I did last season. I could not say exactly how much worse this is than last season without going over my books, but I think I am about $5,000 or $6,000 behind the earnings of last year up to this time. I had some pretty weak attractions, 'Chispa,' 'The Irish American,' and a few others, that I lost with; but as a rule I have found that good, strong shows have received strong patronage. Comedy has paid well, but minstrelsy has drawn poorly, and specialty shows have not done much."

Mr. Pope will close about June 1. He has Salvini next week, in a return engagement. Among the other attractions left are "Hazel Kirke," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Callender's Minstrels and "Squatter Sovereignty." He goes to New York in a short time to obtain attractions for a few open weeks.

THE SUMMER SEASON

promises to be both pleasant and profitable. Uhrig's Cave and the Pickwick Theater will be opened, and the two will open June 4, and remain open until September 3, if not later. Collins & Short will run the Cave, and Sherrell Conner will have the management of the Pickwick. Light operatic combinations will be obtained for both places, and the season will be opened by Ford's Comic Opera Company at the Cave and Hess's Acme Opera Company at the Pickwick, the latter remaining four weeks.

A Brave and Faithful Guardian of Our Homes and Property Rescued from Imminent Peril.

A very popular and well-known member of our police force, who has performed duty twelve years at the Union Railroad Depot, on Exchange Place, in Poovidence, R. I., gives his unsolicited testimony. Hear him:

"I have been dreadfully troubled with disease of the Kidneys and Liver during the past six months; at times I was so severely afflicted that I was unable to stand on my feet, as my feet and lower parts of my legs were very badly swollen; my urinary organs were in a dreadful condition. my blood was in a wretched state. and it has become so impoverished and circulated so poorly that my hands and feet would be cold and numb and so white as to appear lifeless. I could not rest nights, but was so distressed all over that I could not lie still in bed, but would keep turning and rolling from one side to the other all night, so that I would feel more tired and exhausted in the morning than when I went to bed. My condition became so serious that I was obliged to stop work, and for thirty days I was unable to be on duty. I consulted the best doctors, and tried the numerous medicines and so-called cures, but rapidly grew worse, and was in a sad condition every way when a long-time valued friend of mine, prominent in this city in a large express company, urged me to try Hunt's Remedy, as he had known of wonderful cures effected by it. Upon his representation I obtained two bottles of the Remedy and commenced taking it as directed. and greatly to my surprise in less than twenty-four hours I commenced to feel relieved. I was in an awful condition when I began to take the Remedy, and had no faith in it; therefore, when I found almost immediate relief, even in one day's use of it, my heart was made glad, and I assure you I continued to take the Remedy and to improve constantly from day to day. I took it with me on my trip to Maine, for I was bound to have it with me all the time, and the result is that I improved speedily all the time I was away; and ever since my arrival home, which was several weeks ago. I have been on duty every day. I feel first-rate, and the swelling of hand, feet and legs has disappeared, and the terrible backache which used to bother me more than all the rest troubles me no more, and I sleep splendidly nights, and surely have very excellent and forcible reasons for speaking in praise of Hunt's Remedy, for it has made a new man of me. I don't know what I should have done without Hunt's Remedy; it is the best medicine that I ever took, and I very gladly recommend it to all who are afflicted with Kidney or Liver disease, or diseases of the urinary organs.

"Respectfully,

"ISAAC W. FAIRBROTHER."

It appearing to the court from the affidavit herein filed, and from other evidence produced, that the defendant has concealed himself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and the court being satisfied that process cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and said defendant, on the grounds of such cruel and barbarous treatment as to endanger the life of the plaintiff, indignities and failure of support; and unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the City of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof, answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

Emma Crawford
vs.
Augustus Crawford.

The plaintiff comes, by her attorney, and files a petition and affidavit, from which it appears that defendant is a non-resident of the State of Mirsouri; therefore, on motion of the plaintiff, by her attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that the said defendant has during said marriage offered such indignities to plaintiff as to render her condition intolerable, in that he has failed to provide the necessaries and comforts of life for plaintiff, and has been guilty of such conduct as to constitute him a vagrant within the meaning of the law respecting vagrants.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.
